Olson, Downey Elected; M'Adoo Resigns

44-YEAR GOP RULE BROKEN

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Gov. Frank F. Merriam congratulated State Senator Culbert Olson today upon his election as governor and pledged the support of his office to the new occupant.

BULLETIN
WALNUT CREEK, Cal., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Philip Bancroft, Republican, conceded today that Sheridan Downey, Democrat, had won California's nomination to the U. S. senate in yesterday's election.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo resigned his United States Senate post today in a letter received by Gov. Frank F. Merriam, who announced he would accept McAdoo's resignation of his high office.

McAdoo's resignation will enable the governor to appoint a member of the senate to hold office until Senator-Elect Sheridan Downey is sworn in as yesterday's successful Democratic candidate, early in January.

Gov. Merriam said he was uncertain as to whether he would appoint Downey, in view of his success at the polls, or would name "an interim senator," to hold office until Downey takes his oath of office.

McAdoo said in his letter of resignation: "My action is prompted by the thought that the maritime commission in Washington has invited me to become chairman of the board of directors of the round-the-world steamship lines formerly the Dollar line."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Democratic victories in major races in California appeared certain today as increasing returns added steadily to the lead by the New Deal party's candidates for the United States Senate and governor.

With the state likely to see its first Democratic governor in 44 years, the possibility existed that the lieutenant-governor would be a Republican. The U. S. Senate appeared safely in the hands of the Democrats.

Claim Victories
Democratic leaders claimed victories in all three races, but Republican candidates and spokesmen, except for the Los Angeles Times, refused to concede. The contest for lieutenant-governor between Dr. Walter Franklin, Republican, and Ellis Patterson, Democrat, was so close it was likely a full count would be necessary to decide it.

But in the gubernatorial fight, Culbert Olson, Los Angeles state senator, gained steadily on incumbent Frank F. Merriam, Republican, and Liberal Lawyer Sheridan Downey, Democratic candidate, piled up a long lead over Philip Bancroft, Walnut Creek farmer, for the senatorial seat occupied by William Gibbs McAdoo.

Not Clean Sweep
It was not a complete victory for the Democrats, whose cause President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Postmaster-General James Farley and WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins had espoused vigorously.

Republicans won five congressional seats without contest and were threatening to unseat at least four Democratic congressmen.

Despite Democratic friendliness toward the $30-Every-Thursdays pension plan, that controversial issue, one of the 25 propositions on the state ballot, was being beaten. The margin, however, was close.

The single tax amendment was turned down by an overwhelming vote, while proposals to regulate picketing and to make vivisection illegal were trailing by smaller margins.

Democratic victory in the Senatorial and gubernatorial races began even before midnight.

No Statement
The Los Angeles Times, influential Republican newspaper, conceded the election to the Democrats, but Merriam and Bancroft refused to concede. Bancroft retired shortly after midnight without issuing any statement.

Dionnes Go Under Knife

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Dionne quintuplets went on the operating table today for the removal of disease tonsils and adenoids which had threatened their general health.

Marie, smallest of the four-year old girls, was the first to go through the surgical ordeal in the Dafoe nursery on an operating platform improvised out of the dining room table.

She went under full anesthetic at 9:10 a. m. and was removed from the table 30 minutes later, her condition "satisfactory."

Parents Nervous
The others followed at brief intervals, while the nervous parents—Olivia and Elzire Dionne—wring their hands and demanded to know how the babies were getting along.

They had attended a special mass and prayed for the girls' recovery. Dr. C. H. Robson, Toronto specialist, administered the anesthetic.

MURPHY, FRIEND OF ROOSEVELT, LOSES

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald swung Michigan, the cradle of the GOP ranks today with a decisive victory over Gov. Frank Murphy.

Murphy, the champion of labor and the mediator of the sit-down strikes of 1937, saw his hopes of becoming the only Democratic governor in Michigan since Civil War days to be returned to office, dashed under an avalanche of more than 60,000 votes.

Piles Up Lead
Fitzgerald piled up the commanding lead that had been expected among the stolid and conservative rural Michigan citizenry, then surprised many observers by preventing Murphy from sweeping the crucial and traditionally Democratic Wayne county and Detroit.

Returns from 2,812 precincts in Michigan's 3,553 showed: Murphy 556,247; Fitzgerald 639,432.

INDIANA'S VAN NUYS TRAILS REPUBLICAN
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—(UP)—Raymond E. Willis, Republican nominee for U. S. Senator, forged ahead of Sen. Frederick Van Nuys today with one half of Indiana's vote tabulated.

With 2049 of the state's 3872 precincts counted the totals were: Willis 443,506; Van Nuys 439,645.

Van Nuys, the first Senator scheduled to be purged by the New Deal for opposition to two national administration measures, but who subsequently was renominated, carried the state's metropolitan and industrial areas, but not with large enough margins to enable him to hold his early lead.

If Willis should win the Senatorial contest, his victory probably would deal a near fatal blow to the presidential hopes of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt, who has been depending upon a solid Hoosier Democracy to back his White House campaign in 1940.

Officers Assist As Doctor "Elects" New Boy
Officers Herman Stahl and J. B. Stephenson were elected early today to perform what unanimously was decided as meritorious service.

Believe it or not, they were elected at 2:15 a. m. to be obstetricians at the unexpected birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Gonzalo Mendez, 1803 West Third street, Mrs. Mendez being discovered at the door of her home, wanting assistance.

The officers were patrolling the district in the Mendez home area when they saw a frantic woman at the door of her unlighted home. A doctor's car attracted their attention. They dashed a light. They entered the place.

There they found Dr. Arthur Robbins, of Garden Grove, trying to assist without any lights in the house.

While Stahl held a flashlight for the doctor, and Stephenson boiled water to sterilize instruments, the doctor "elected" the new son.

GOP GAINS AS U. S. BALLOTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Republican party regained rich political prizes in yesterday's general election and returned today to major political status at the expense of the New Deal and minor parties.

The six years of New Deal-Democratic triumphs has been reversed. But the Democratic party retained control of Congress despite losses and won outstanding and significant victories in a scattering of states.

New G. O. P. Citadels
This election in 47 states—Maine voted in September—constitutes the 76th Congress, establishes new Republican state citadels and probably points the nation to a rousing, better matched Presidential contest in 1940 than has been experienced of late.

Returns variously were interpreted as a more-than normal off-year swing from a majority party, as the upshot of popular reaction to the 1937-38 depression and continued unemployment, or as a swing away from the more advanced of New Deal labor and reorganizational policies.

But there was no conclusive proof that President Roosevelt's personal popularity had been felt below the majority level. Neither did the polling answer the question: Will conditions persuaded Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term?

Gain Eight Seats
Republicans have won or are leading in contests which would give them a net gain of eight Senate seats, 11 new governorships

CONSTABLE JUSTICE RESULTS UNCERTAIN

Charles Kuchel, incumbent, is leading Eldon Stark for the office of justice of the peace of Anaheim township, having 2692 votes and Stark 2214 votes, with 26 precincts reporting.

In the same township, Homer Wallace has 2538 votes to 2441 votes for the incumbent, Ed Marlon, with the same number of precincts reporting.

Dave Fairbairn, county jailer, is leading Cal Lester, incumbent, for the office of justice of peace of Orange township by 76 votes, with returns from one precinct No. 3, still missing this morning.

Fairbairn has 2692 votes and Lester 2616.

INVITES NEGRO TEAM
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Le Moyne Negro College's Mad Magicians, second ranking Negro college football team in the nation, has been invited to play the University of Hawaii at Honolulu on Dec. 8, 1940. The game would be a benefit affair.

Warner New Supervisor

A new alignment on the board of county supervisors was seen today by political observers, despite the apparent re-election of Supervisor N. E. West, of Laguna Beach, as Supervisor John Mitchell, of Garden Grove, 12-year veteran of the board, went down to defeat before Willis Warner, president of the Orange county water district and former mayor of Huntington Beach.

Returns from 23 out of 28 precincts reporting, led Councilman Lloyd Claire, of Newport Beach, in the fifth district, 2769 to 2053, and seemed assured of victory.

Missing precincts included several in the home city of each candidate, Laguna Beach and Newport Beach.

Defeat of Mitchell led observers to speculate on the probability that the board control probably would change, with Supervisor West finding himself in a minority with Mitchell no longer an ally, as so frequently in the past.

MORRISON, WEST IN TIGHTEST BATTLE

Conceded by even the most seasoned of battlers in political circles to be the hottest contest in Orange county's general election contest was that being waged between Franklin G. West, well known Santa Ana attorney, and Justice Kenneth Morrison for the office of Judge of Superior Court No. 2.

Shortly after noon today, West had valiantly overcome a tremendous lead that had been piled up to an extent that victory virtually had been conceded to Justice Morrison.

The count at this time in 222 out of the 246 precincts in Orange county stood at 20,912 votes for West as against 20,912 for Justice Morrison, thus giving the latter a lead of only 100, with 24 more precincts to be heard from.

"We're getting the greatest thrill out of this contest now," declared one of the observers at the courthouse as everyone awaited the count of each incoming precinct.

Bourbons Sweep Arizona Election
PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Arizona Democratic party swept its entire national and state ticket into office today on the basis of returns from yesterday's general election.

With a complete count from 149 and incomplete returns from 237 of the state's 433 precincts, the Democratic candidates piled up an ever increasing majority.

Sen. Carl Hayden, veteran New Deal Democrat, was reelected by a wide margin over his Republican opponent, Bert H. Clinan, Phoenix attorney. The vote was: Hayden, 43,254; Clinan, 11,276.

The contest for Arizona's lone seat in congress was an easy victory for Democratic Rep. John R. Murdock in a 40,463 to 9,372 vote over M. E. Cassidy, Republican.

For governor, R. T. Jones, Democrat, apparently was reelected in a three-way race.

California's Bourbon Governor

On the basis of incomplete returns from over the state, Culbert L. Olson, above, today became the first Democrat to hold the office of Governor of the State of California since the Republicans took over the reins 44 years ago. The new governor first came to California 13 years ago after having served in the Utah senate and had participated in organizing banks and mining properties. Olson has three sons, is a resident of Los Angeles where he maintains law offices.

SEEK TO LINK HANDWRITING ON PAMPHLET WITH M'KELVEY

Fighting back at what were apparently attempts on the part of the prosecution to prove that samples of his handwriting were the same as appeared on the original manuscript of "Fools Rush In" pamphlet, former Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey this morning pressed witnesses to prove his point.

The situation took place at a Harris testified that he had continuance of the hearing that been given a number of specimens including, he thought, some of the defendants in the case, but could not recall if any of the specimens contained the names of others who were not defendants.

Question Expert
Here McKelvey, who is conducting his own defense in the case in which he is charged with criminal conspiracy, questioned the expert as to the characteristics of the various specimens.

Asked if any one specimen seemed to have more characteristics than others as compared with the writing in the pamphlet manuscript, Harris testified that one of the specimens contained more individual characteristics than the others and they "were mostly in the McKelvey specimens."

Harris stated that he got half of the desired specimen but when a duplicate specimen to be used as a check for the first was requested "he was told that it had been refused."

Request Referred
Harris admitted under further questioning that he had not been satisfied with the specimen of McKelvey's handwriting and had requested the district attorney's office for a further specimen, with specific words to be included in the specimen.

"Did you get it?" McKelvey asked.

Harris stated that he got half of the desired specimen but when a duplicate specimen to be used as a check for the first was requested "he was told that it had been refused."

HERE'S HOW THEY VOTED
Santa Ana city voted as follows: Merriam 8017, Olson 6337; Bancroft 7162, Downey 7084; Sheppard 7137, Johnson 6617; Watson 6704, Marks 5063; Ames 6914; Davis 6238; West 6466, Morris 6977; Jackson 3505, Elliott 10,0; Menton 5526, Holden 7927.

100 VOTES SEPARATES CANDIDATES FOR JUDGE

Only one contest remained in doubt today, as results of yesterday's general election in Orange county as reported by 211 out of 246 precincts, showing the re-election of Judge H. G. Ames, both of the county's assemblymen, Thomas H. Kuchel, of Anaheim, and Clyde Watson, of Orange, a close but unmistakable edge for Congressman Harry R. Sheppard over Mayor C. T. Johnson, of San Bernardino, in the nineteenth district; and defeat of Sheriff Logan Jackson and District Attorney W. F. Menton by Constable J. L. Elliott, of Santa Ana, and City Attorney George Holden, Anaheim, respectively.

100 Votes Difference
With returns from 222 precincts available, and only 24 more to be heard from, Attorney Franklin G. West, of Santa Ana, had steadily cut down an early lead held by Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, also of Santa Ana, and was exactly 100 votes behind. The 24 remaining precincts were scattered over both northern and southern areas, both candidates having anticipated strongholds uncounted. These 24 precincts and an absentee vote of more than 900 were expected to settle the issue.

Constable Elliott gradually piled up his lead over Sheriff Jackson until it reached above 9000, the count being Elliott 25,116, Jackson 16,161. Holden held a lead of nearly 6000, with 22,589 to 16,843.

Ames Leads
Judge Ames defeated James L. Davis by 5705 on the face of the incomplete returns, with 22,516 to 16,811 for Davis. In the 75th district, Assemblyman Kuchel, Republican, defeated City Attorney Burr Brown, Democrat, of Seal Beach, 11,538 to 6053. Assemblyman Clyde Watson, Democrat, of Orange, was re-elected in the 74th district over Adrian Marks, Santa Ana Republican, 12,278 to 8408.

Congressman Sheppard led Mayor Johnson in Orange county, 20,202 to 19,393; in Riverside 7428 to 7283, with 84 out of 165 precincts reported; and in San Bernardino county, 13840 to 11,010, with 178 out of 353 precincts reported; the district total being Sheppard 41,470, Johnson 37,688.

Support Merriam
In the state elections Orange county turned out a majority of about 5500 to Governor Frank F. Merriam, Republican, over Senator Culbert L. Olson, Democrat, the count being 24,334 to 18,955.

Other Republican candidates also led in this county, Bancroft, with 21,640, being closely pressed by Downey, with 21,462, in the senatorial race. Dr. Walter Scott Franklin, Republican candidate for lieutenant-governor, had 22,154 to 16,989 for Ellis Patterson, Democrat. Earl Warren, holding both major nominations for attorney-general, swamped Carl Kogley, write-in candidate for the Ham and Eggs supporters.

Ham and Eggs were wiped off the menu by Orange county voters, the count being 18,650 yes and 27,495 no. Proposition No. 1, the picketing measure, carried here 23,158 to 22,203. No. 20, the single tax proposal received a crushing defeat here as elsewhere, 35,321 to 4556.

NEAR ARREST AS SPY TOLD

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Cleveland's famous feminine sprinter, Stella Walsh, has returned from her 10th trip abroad with an exciting tale of being mistaken for a Polish spy, in the Sudetenland, and with several packing cases of track trophies and medals.

Miss Walsh (formerly Walasiewicz) is the holder of numerous titles on her three and one-half month European tour she participated in various track meets, but she said that the most exciting portion of her trip was being suspected as a spy.

"I was returning to Warsaw, Poland, from the international track championships at Vienna when I was detained for several hours while passing through the Sudetenland," Miss Walsh said. She said that it was the night of Sept. 22 and the German-Czech crisis was at its peak.

Passport Taken Up
"Passports were being examined in a routine manner. I had a Polish passport, however, and this came in for special attention. My passport was picked up and held for several hours.

"Officials told me that the border had been closed.

"Then I was told: 'If you know what is good for you, you will not look out the train window.'"

Miss Walsh said that previously she had seen large concentrations of Czech troops and armored tanks, but now she obeyed the officials as she was too frightened to disregard their warning.

"I was beginning to believe that war had broken out as I was not even allowed to leave the train for a cup of coffee," Miss Walsh said.

She was afraid that Czech authorities would find her camera, which was in her luggage, and which she had used to take sports pictures. The authorities' suspicions might be heightened if they discovered the camera, Miss Walsh believed.

"They must have finally decided, however, that I was no 'Mata Hari' as my passport was returned to me soon after midnight. I then was allowed to proceed to Poland," she said.

The Polish-American runner had another taste of war when she experienced an air raid alarm in Vienna.

Poland, Germany and Italy rewarded Miss Walsh for victories in the realm of sports. A representative of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler presented her with a pin which was symbolic of a five-time championship in any sport. It was the first pin of its kind awarded to a non-German.

Poland offered her a position as national athletic instructor. Miss Walsh said that she declined this offer as it would jeopardize her amateur standing.

The track star plans to study physical education "somewhere in Cleveland" this winter.

Her athletic trophies now total 600.

Former Convicts Held by G-Men In Kidnap-Murder

The four former convicts pictured above who Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover claims were involved in three hitherto unrevealed kidnappings and one murder in New York, have been turned over to New York authorities by federal men. Left to right are William Jacknis, Joseph Saccia, John Virga, and Demetrius Gale. Killed and cremated while the kidnap gang was demanding $200,000 ransom was Arthur Fried, White Plains, N. Y., business man, missing since December 14, Hoover said. Kidnaped and released on payment of ransom, were Benjamin Farber and Norman Miller. The four also are accused of three robberies.

WOMEN VIEWED AS WAR PILOTS

AKRON, O. (UP)—Jacqueline Cochran believes that women are not fitted emotionally for the job of piloting airplanes, though she successfully competed with male pilots to win the Bendix trophy in this year's National Air Races in Cleveland.

"My aviation experiences have convinced me that women would not make good air line pilots—we could not stand the steady grind," she said.

"In the strain and stress of war, women fliers would rise to the emergency and do a marvelous piece of work," she said.

Reveals Struggles
Miss Cochran "dropped in" to speak at the Akron women's chapter of the National Aeronautic association. For the first time, she revealed her early struggles while gaining recognition as a flier.

"Six years ago I was quite an unknown person, working in a store in New York," she said. "I left a good position to buy a small airplane. From then on things began to happen to me thick and fast."

She emphasized, however, that for every "lucky break" she had, she had had 20 discouraging ones. "My first plane cracked up on a take-off. The one school of piloting I wanted to enter was closed to women. Then I had a severe illness," she said.

Real Flying Heroines
"Although I finally 'crashed through' to the field of big-time aviation, do not consider myself a heroine in any sense of the word. The real flying heroines were those who piloted planes 10, 15 and 20 years ago."

Miss Cochran said that she was a very close friend of Amelia Earhart and really had learned to fly because of Amelia's encouragement.

"Amelia spent much of the last six months of her life—before her attempted round-the-world flight—at my ranch," the aviatix said. "Had Amelia's flight materialized, I was to use her plane to make a Paris flight."

This year's Bendix trophy winner recently was selected as the one woman member of a new youth movement in aviation, headed by Winthrop Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller's grandson.

SOIL OF TANA BASIN PRAISED

ROME (UP)—A long, detailed survey by agrarian experts has just revealed that the Lake Tana basin is one of the most fertile regions in Italian East Africa.

Experts Elated
Italian colonial authorities are elated with the agricultural value of the soil of this region. They have been assured that crops can be grown with success and pastureage will be continuous.

The soil is of three basic types: black, composed of lighter clays as a result of the mixture of sandy elements; light colored, which is dryer and coarser, and red, which is formed of heavy clays found at the foot of the valley.

The soil is composed of alluvial deposits from the hills, accumulated in the broad plains and improved by vegetable sedimentation through thousands of years. The geological system of Lake Tana and the surrounding district is among the most recent in all the Ethiopian plateau and is formed by volcanic manifestations of the tertiary and quaternary periods.

Feudal Holdings
The land in the Tana basin was not exploited to the same extent of other fertile regions in the old Ethiopian Empire, such as the Sioan and Ambaric plateaus. The characteristics of the region and the small population resulted to some extent to the limited number of farms. Another reason was because much of the region was divided into feudal and church holdings.

Under these circumstances authorities will be able to solve the problem of land available for private farming.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PRESENT 'VAGABOND KING' DEC. 8, 9

The high school production of Rudolph Friml's light opera, "The Vagabond King," will be presented December 8 and 9 and the music and art departments are working hard to make this production a success.

The local institution is the first high school in the west to produce this outstanding musical version of the play, "If I Were King," and much interest has been manifested in it, according to Herbert G. Bickel, head of the music department, who is in charge of the production.

Cost Announced
The cast has been chosen as follows: Herbert Scott as Francois Villon, the dashing King of the vagabonds and Margaret Fields as Katherine de Vaucelles, lady in waiting to the queen. Stanley Pearson has the leading comedy role of Tabarie. The tragic role of Huguenote will be played by Zobeida Escobar. Louis XI, the mad King of France, will be played by Don Oliphant; Tristan, his confidant, will be played by Bill Morris. Robert Taylor will take the part of Rogati, a thief, and will also take the part of an astrologer.

Production Staff
The production staff has been chosen from the faculty and they will assist Bickel. In charge of the orchestra is Kenneth Heiges of the music department. Miss Florence Beggs of the physical education department will have charge of the dances and Hazel Nell Bemus of the art department will be in charge of properties, stage design, and the painting of the scenery. Miss Ruth Rowland of the home economics department will supervise costuming and Wally Grigg will supervise the building of the three elaborate sets.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods as when you are nervous, hurried or when you eat too much food, your stomach doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.
Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes these little black tablets called Bell-sana for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25¢ package proves it. Ask for Bell-sana for Indigestion.

GOP ONCE HAD 3-1 LEAD HERE; REGISTER HEADLINES PROVE IT

Remember the general election "way back in 1912?"—When headlines in The Register said:

"3244 Republicans; Democrats, 1108; Santa Ana has registration of over 4600 voters at the present time; clerk is mailing sample ballots; estimate of three to one give city of Santa Ana population of 13,800."

Those were headlines over a story in The Register on August 24, 1912, when W. B. Williams was clerk of courts. And if everyone doesn't remember those days, The Register today was assured by many there are hundreds here and in the county who well remember that August, the one preceding the general election in which the "good roads bonds" carried by a goodly majority.

That was only 26 years ago and at that time there were 7454 registered voters in the entire county.

Commenting on the great growth of the county seat and sister communities, officials pointed out that Orange county now has 74,908 registered voters, 39,474 of whom are Democrats, and 31,356 are Republicans. Santa Ana in 1912 had 10 precincts, and now has 71. "Who can say Santa Ana won't have at least 100 precincts in 1940?" asked one official.

Bourbon Named To U. S. Senate

Taking an early lead as returns came pouring in from over the state, Sheridan Downey, Democrat, was today recognized as the winner in the race for United States Senate to succeed William Gibbs McAdoo. His Republican opponent, Philip Bancroft, trailed far behind as early returns were tabulated.

SAVES 4000 PENNIES
ASTABULA, O. (UP) — The Swedish Mission church collected 32 pounds of pennies from its congregation for its mission work. About 4000 pennies comprised the 32 pounds of coins which the church members had saved in penny banks.

New Deal Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, and John W. Bricker, who will by the first G.O.P. governor there since 1830.

Mayor Frank Hague's New Jersey Democratic machine was tilted if not tipped when William H. J. Ely, backed by the New Deal for senator, was defeated by former Sen. W. Warren Harbour, Rep.

Republicans gained senatorial and gubernatorial seats in Connecticut, Kansas, Ohio and Wisconsin. Their senate gains without gubernatorial trimming included New Hampshire, New Jersey and South Dakota. The Republican senatorial candidate in Oregon was leading in a contest for a 'democratic seat. Of three Republican incumbents up this year, the issue was decided in their favor except in North Dakota where Sen. Gerald P. Nye, Rep., had a good lead. The winners so far were Davis in Pennsylvania and Sen. Ernest Gibson, Rep., Vt.

tic and Dr. D. E. S. Wishart, also of Toronto, performed the operations. Dr. Allan Roy Darfo, the quintuplets' doctor and guardian, and Dr. Alan Brown of Toronto, consulting physician, stayed away from the operating room to keep the girls from associating their discomfort with them.

Lives Endangered
It was Dr. Brown who had insisted upon the operations with the warning that the chronic infections from which all five babies were suffering might spread and endanger their lives.

The operations were the biggest "news" in the villages of Callander and nearby Corbair in years. The townsfolk prayed for the quintuplets' recovery, as did the Rev. Victor Pilon, Callander parish priest who presided at the special mass.

Conclave Prunes Kept Under Guard

SANTA BARBARA, Cal. (UP)—The San Jose delegation to the convention of the State Federation of Labor which brought with it a large shipment of Santa Clara Valley prunes as an inducement to delegates to have the 1939 convention held at San Jose took the precaution to have them locked in the city jail until the opportune moment for distribution arrived.

The reason was that a previous shipment for a similar purpose was "stolen." This time the prunes were distributed at the moment of voting and San Jose won the 1939 convention.

PROCLAMATION
Whereas, on Nov. 11, 1918, the great powers of the world came to a solemn truce that brought an end to death and destruction in a foreign land, and

In the gubernatorial contest, 672 precincts gave: Merriam, 68,247; Olson, 547,005; Raymond Haight, Pro., 25,387, and Robert Noble (Commonwealth) 10,676. Haight withdrew from the race after winning his party's nomination but his name remained on the ballot.

In the lieutenant-governorship race, with 7672 districts reporting, the vote stood: Walter S. Franklin, Rep., 329,579; Ellis Patterson, Dem., 335,170; Geneva Shaffer, Townsend, 11,505.

Returns from 7124 precincts in the balloting on the major state propositions included:

In the Congressional races the Republicans definitely captured one Democratic seat to increase their delegation from four to five and stood a good chance of winning several others.

Congressmen safely re-elected were: Rep. Clarence Lea, D., 1st; Rep. Harry Englebright, R., 2nd; Rep. Frank Buck, D., 3rd; Rep. Frank Havenner, D., 4th; Rep. Richard Welch, R., 5th; Rep. Albert Carter, R., 6th; Rep. B. W. Gearhart, R., 9th—three Democrats and four Republicans.

Leland M. Ford, a Republican, won the seat in the 16th district formerly held by Democrat John Dockweiler.

Five Democratic candidates were leading by sufficient margins to claim victories. They were Rep. Jerry Voorhis, 12th; Rep. Charles Kramer, 13th; Rep. Thomas Ford, 14th; and Rep. John Costello, 15th. The Democrats also appeared to have won in the 17th district, with Lee Geyer claiming election to succeed the late Rep. Charles Golden, a Democrat.

Republican incumbents, fortified by the nominations of both major parties, retained their posts. Frank C. Jordan was re-elected secretary of state; Charles Johnson, state treasurer; and Harry B. Riley, state controller. Earl Warren, district attorney of Alameda county and the Republican and Democratic nominee in the state race, won the attorney-generalship easily over minor opposition. Warren will succeed U. S. Webb, who had held the office for more than 25 years. Webb did not run this time.

Change on Board

One change was made in the state board of equalization, with George Reilly, San Francisco Democrat, capturing the board place in District No. 1. Reilly will succeed the late John Corbett, who died after the primary election in which he won the Republican, Democratic and Progressive nominations. Reilly's opponent was Andrew F. Gallagher, Republican who had been appointed by Gov. Merriam to finish Corbett's term.

One of the most interesting of the extremely early reports on yesterday's general election came to offices of The Register shortly before 9 p. m. from Tustin.

On the basis of six precincts in that city, the county candidates registered as follows:

Assembly, 74th, Watson, 140; Carlisle, 39; Marks, 107; superior court No. 1, Ames, 142 and Davis, 126; superior court, No. 2, West, 125 and Morrison, 160; sheriff, Jackson, 84 and Elliott, 193; district attorney, Menton, 122 and Holden, 193, and supervisor, fifth, West, 145 and Claire, 142.

Here's Real Flash For Early Workers

Flash: "West beats Morrison 159 to 123 in the race for Superior court No. 2; Ames trounces Davis 177 to 94; Elliott takes Jackson 163 to 118; and Menton triumphed over Holden 141 to 131."

But don't get excited folks. It's just Precinct No. 68, Santa Ana, sounding off as early as 7:45 p. m. Tuesday—the first in the entire county to report totals for all the county contests.elayed from The Register to KVOE, the interesting early figures were promptly broadcast.

Workers in the precinct were: Helen Anderson, inspector; Charles P. Millen and Emma C. Heath, judges; Floss Brinkerhoff, Flora C. Smith and June Clark, clerks.

ITALIAN FORCE HIT BY SPEAKER

Charges that Italian forces under the leadership of Premier Benito Mussolini in the recent Italo-Ethiopian war "used mustard gas to subdue the Ethiopians and that if sanctions had been properly applied Italy could have never conquered Ethiopia" were hurled before members of the Santa Ana Rotary club yesterday by Dr. George Burkman of Fullerton.

Dr. Burkman recently returned from Ethiopia where he had been in charge of missionary hospital at Addis Ababa for the past four years.

Roots In 1894
"Foundation for the war between Italy and Ethiopia had its roots in a campaign in 1894 in which the Ethiopians decisively defeated the Italians," Dr. Burkman said.

"The Ethiopians knew what bullets would do to a man but they were helpless and didn't understand how the poison gas of the Italians could injure them. Despite the denial on the part of the Italians, that they used the gas I know that they did," Dr. Burkman said.

"Both sides had about 300,000 men in the field during the war but the Ethiopians were hopelessly out-classed as far as equipment was concerned."

Decries Lack of Action
"After the five days of looting in Addis Ababa following the abdication of Emperor Haile Selassie, 30,000 Italians poured into the royal city in 3000 motor trucks."

"I am convinced that if sanctions had been properly applied, Italy would never have been able to conquer Ethiopia. Italy needs the machines and oil of other nations to successfully carry on the war in Ethiopia," Dr. Burkman said.

Rex Kennedy, program chairman for the club announced that plans had been completed for the joint meeting of the club with Kiwanis and Lions clubs on November 18 in honor of the high school and junior college football teams.

"We had hoped to have Joe E. Brown, film comedian, as the speaker but were unable to make the arrangement. In his stead we have secured Jack McCard, nationally known football official, as the guest speaker," Kennedy said. Dr. John Ball was chairman for the day at yesterday's meeting and introduced the speaker.

Action View Of Ballet Caravan

Youthful American dancers of the Ballet Caravan troupe are shown above in action. They will be featured tonight at 8:20 p. m. on the variety program of the Ballet Caravan.

GLAMOROUS BALLET CARAVAN TO BE STAGED IN S. A. TONIGHT

The Ballet Caravan, hailed as the new American contribution to the international dance scene, comes to the high school auditorium tonight at 8:20 o'clock as the second program of the Orange County Concert series. The Caravan offers an outstanding and varied repertoire of dance numbers.

"The enthusiastic satisfaction April 21, tenor star Metropolitan Opera, radio and motion pictures, expressed by the audience at Pinza's concert, the first of the series, leads us to expect a highly receptive audience again tonight," Ed Hall, of the citizens' committee said.

Outstanding Numbers
"The coming events of the series will present those among the world's greatest artists now appearing on all of the large metropolitan concert courses at more than twice the charge made for the concerts here."

One of the highlights of the Caravan's repertoire is a fantasy of the Old West, "Billy the Kid". This all-American ballet depicts the life of one William Bonney, known as "Billy the Kid". The times in which the famous character lived are faithfully represented by the costuming and action in scenes from the period of western expansion.

Full Program Given
Lincoln Kirstein, youthful founder of the Caravan, believed in a new American ballet which would break away from the stereotyped European form. He and the ballet have succeeded in doing this as evidenced by the receptions from Maine to Cuba and in all large cities of the east and south.

The five concerts at the high school auditorium include: Ballet Caravan, tonight, 8:20 p. m.; all star cast American dancers; Curtis String Quartet—Jan. 13; greatest quartet that has ever toured Europe and America; Casadesu—March 14; brilliant French pianist who has been engaged by all leading orchestras; Kathryn Meisle, leading contralto Metropolitan Opera and America's most beloved concert star, and Nino Martini—

Author Urges Schools Teach Story Writing

MONTREAL (UP)—Leslie Roberts, Canadian author, would make every student a short-story writer if he had his say.

Roberts suggested to the Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec at a convention here that plots of short stories should be substituted for the usual essay themes as a means of teaching English composition in schools. Pupils would fill in details of the plot.

"I have often wondered why teachers, and those behind the teachers, insist on belaboring young minds with such chores as an essay describing spring in the eastern townships," he said. "Our spring may possess some of the qualities of which poets sing, but obviously the adolescent boy or the teen-age girl is not going to commit such delirium on paper. The result is an essay that establishes an all-time high for woodenness."

Electric Cooking is ECONOMICAL

A FULL-COURSE DINNER COSTS LESS THAN 1¢ PER PERSON

Surprising indeed is the economy of the modern electric range with its lower simmering temperatures, thrift cooker, insulated oven and other improved features. A full-course dinner costs hardly a penny per person for electricity, other meals much less. But that is not the only way you economize. You save a big portion of your food bill through elimination of shrinkage and cooking failures; you save because the construction of the electric range makes it last for years; finally you save because of the special low domestic rate to which the purchase of an electric range entitles you. Take advantage of these economies now. See the new models at your dealer's.

It's All In The Family And The Olsons Don't Mean "Maybe"

And the Culbert Olson family went to the polls yesterday to vote—for Mr. Olson, of course. Dean, John and Mrs. Olson told newspapermen they were solidly behind Culbert Olson. They meant it. So did thousands of other voters, according to well-founded reports!

Tented Ghetto In Czech "No Man's Land"

Innocent victims of the diplomatic chess game that changed their nationality without consulting them, hundreds of Jews huddle, homeless, penniless and hungry, in the neutral no-man's-land between the new German Sudetenland and Czechoslovakia. Expelled from their Sudeten homes by Nazi storm troopers who followed the German army of occupation, they were refused admittance to Czechoslovakia ostensibly because they are technically German citizens. The photo above was taken south of Brno, where 150 Jewish refugees, many stricken with influenza, made a roadside camp. Some slept under hedges or in ditches. Luckier ones, like those pictured, found shelter under makeshift tents.

Mr. Oregon-He Eyes White House

There are more than congressional candidates with their eyes toward Washington in this fateful month of November. Miss Audrey Blaisdell was hostess

Eyes dull with despair, this Sudeten Jewish mother and daughter gaze toward a future that seems hopeless as they huddle on the cold ground of a refugee camp in the no-man's-land between German Sudetenland and Czechoslovakia. Like hundreds of other Jews, they were forced from their Sudetenland home after Germany took the area, and refused entry into Czechoslovakia. They live in a self-made roadside ghetto, penniless and hungry, scrabbling in the fields for potatoes overlooked by harvesters. Their only shelter is a tarpaulin given by a sympathetic frontier guard.

Both Sides Laugh at Rail Dispute

Reflecting satisfaction over his discussion with the President on the wage dispute between railroads and employees, John J. Pelley, president of the American Association of Railroads, is pictured leaving the White House. Peaceful settlement of the quarrel was seen when railroads agreed to abandon their proposed 15 per cent wage cut, a proposal that had threatened a strike of railway workers.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Executives Association, shown leaving the White House after a talk with President Roosevelt, appears well satisfied with the decision of the railroads not to go through with their proposed 15 per cent wage cut. Harrison represents an important group of railroad employees. Earlier the President's fact-finding board had urged the cut be abandoned.

DRIVE CAREFULLY—SAVE A LIFE—

ELECTION NATURAL RESULT

The California election is what was expected by any student of history. California, as yet, has not experienced such hard times as some of the Eastern manufacturing states. The working men, as a whole, believe Bancroft is a labor oppressor; that he is not interested in the working man, so they voted against him.

Back in Michigan, where they have some more vivid experience of attempting to raise wages by majority rule and sit-down strikes, they have found to some degree that it is not practical and turned out Gov. Murphy the labor baiter.

Many elderly people in California have suffered great losses due to the misuse of bank credit. Many of these people had accumulated a competence to take care of their old age, but owing to things being out of balance, largely due to former inflation and then deflation, they lost their life's savings. These people naturally are willing to accept any suggestion, no matter how fantastic it may be, that would give them renewed hope. They fail to realize that the only permanent solution for the difficulties is more production and a freer exchange of what is produced. The disappointments of these people, together with the training being taught in many of the colleges and schools, would naturally lead to the vote as cast in California. With these conditions prevailing, it is rather discouraging to any man who owns property in the State of California.

The election reminds us of the historic quotation made by Polybius, the first eminent Greek historian who wrote 2000 years ago on the causes of events. He said: "So when they begin to lust for power and cannot attain it through themselves or their own good qualities, they ruin their estates, tempting and corrupting the people in every possible way. And hence when by their foolish thirst for reputation they have created among the masses an appetite for gifts and the habit of recovering them, democracy in its turn is abolished and changes into a rule of force and violence. For the people, having grown accustomed to feed at the expense of others, and to depend for their livelihood on the property of others, as soon as they find a leader who is enterprising but is excluded from the honors of office by his penury, institute the rule of violence; and now uniting their forces massacre, banish, and plunder, until they degenerate again into perfect savages, and find once more a master and monarch."

We hope it does not go that far, but history usually repeats itself.

INSULTING AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE

Chronic deficits mean but one thing—insolvency. And whether it concerns an individual, a business or a nation, insolvency denotes ruin, inexorable and final.

The federal government has not balanced its budget for nearly a decade. It has reached the "chronic deficit" stage. The politicians, although they feel that it is dangerous to try to seize any more of the people's wealth in the form of taxes, cannot resist the temptation to spend more and more borrowed public money on the plea that the country is wealthy and need have no fear of the huge debt. Such a plea is utterly false. It is an insult to the intelligence of the American people.

Of course there is wealth in this country. If there were not, the squandering officeholders would have wrecked it long ago. But this wealth admittedly cannot all be confiscated in the form of taxes to pay the debts of government. The extreme limit of this kind of seizure has been about reached—hence government tax income is nearly at the maximum until the day when more wealth is created.

The only alternative is to decrease expenses, if insolvency of the federal government is to be avoided.

SPORT AND SPELTER MOUNTAIN

Sport, a brown and white beagle hound, who got lost and fell in a rocky cavern near his home at Spelter Mountain in the northern Alleghenys of West Virginia, has been well described as a community dog.

He disappeared two weeks ago and his friendly yelp was not missed for a day for Sport was a dog of the trail and he would frequently go hunting alone if none of the 350 residents of Spelter elected to take him hunting.

Howard Walls, his 19-year-old master, finally found the dog caught in a rocky cavern and returning to Spelter spread the word that some 10 ton of rock would have to be moved to free the little fellow. That's a lot of rock for one beagle hound even in West Virginia.

Mrs. Ethel Burton, who had raised Sport from a pup, volunteered to buy dynamite with her savings and the whole community went to work. Grimy men, worried women and silent children scrambled over the rocky pathway together to lend a hand in Sport's rescue.

Sport had planted real community spirit in what had been a few hundred individuals living together in a mountain village.

MOSCOW TERRORISM IN MINNESOTA

(Chicago Tribune)

Clarence Hathaway, the editor of the Daily Worker, New York's communist party newspaper, went to Minneapolis to do his own reporting of the trial of Arnold Johnson. Johnson was the driver for William S. Brown, head of the teamsters' district council. He confessed that he had murdered his employer, but the jury of six men and six women came to the seemingly contradictory verdict that he was innocent. Mr. Hathaway's reason for thinking this murder trial worthy of his own personal attention is in itself the key to an extraordinary story.

Four crimes are outstanding in Minnesota's recent political history. They are unsolved murders and unquestionably political. The killers got the editors of two small papers, Liggett and Guilford, both murdered to stop the exposures they were making, both being slain after the state's press gag law had been pronounced unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court.

The other two political murders took two offi-

TWO KINDS OF INTEREST

I have had some discussions recently with men who were very much opposed to interest. They believed that interest was the root of our trouble. They condemned all interest.

And there is some ground for these men being confused on the damage done by interest. Interest is paid in two ways; one is a legitimate receipt of money, called interest, which in reality is only rent; the other is an illegitimate receipt of money called interest, which is very obnoxious and dangerous.

The first kind of interest is, as stated above, a payment for rent. A man borrows money that is in existence and not created for the purpose of lending it. A man trades this money for things—a farm, a house, a refrigerator, an automobile or a cow. The interest he pays on this is the same as rent. This is a legitimate payment. And while it is called interest, it in reality is rent. It is a desirable function of exchange because it often puts the real wealth into the hands of the man who is benefited by having the wealth transferred to him. He is benefited by more than the cost of the payment for the use of this property.

On the other hand, the interest that has caused almost as much trouble as any other factor in our commercial transactions is the payment of interest on manufactured credit, on check-book money, on the banks' misuse of credit. Paying interest on this kind of manufactured credit throws the parity of prices out of line. It confuses the humble worker and business man who has not made a life study of money and credit. In the last ten years, it has bankrupted millions of people. It discourages thrift and labor. It is of the utmost importance that people begin to understand the different kinds of rewards paid for the use of property and the use of manufactured bank credit. One is a blessing to society and the other is one of the worst curses ever devised by the mind of man.

A NEW CRIME

We have established in the United States a new crime. It now becomes a crime, punishable by imprisonment or a fine, for a private citizen engaged in interstate commerce to employ a man and pay him more than the employee can sell his services to anyone else in the world, if this treatment—this wage—does not comply with what those people who have no better job for the man or do not employ labor believe he should be paid.

These men who have advocated these kinds of laws, that make it a crime to benefit the young man, the old man, or the slow man, by giving him more than anyone else will give him for his energy, are of the same calibre as the store keeper who contends, when he does not have an item in stock that he sells it for less than others are selling it. He also contends that he pays more for labor than others pay but he has no jobs for those who make application.

It is a trick, a scheme of the lazy and inefficient who would pose as being humanitarian; they tell other people to do things that they cannot or will not do themselves, or cause to be done. A man who demands of another man that he do difficult jobs that he cannot do himself or cause to be done is a hypocrite, an imposter, a menace to society. He is more to be feared than the man who puts poison in a well.

It is time that we find out who are Tories and who are real liberals. The man who does these things of restricting free enterprise, is the very antithesis of liberalism and the very embodiment of Toryism, no matter whether he protests his liberalism to the world or not. We judge men by their acts, not by what they claim or say.

cers of the powerful Teamsters' union, which was the vanguard of the late Gov. Floyd Olson's attack upon Minnesota industry. Patrick J. Corcoran was the first assassin. His murderers, like those of the two editors, were never punished. They weren't even found. Then Brown, the head of the teamsters' district council, was killed. The murderer, as confessed, was his own driver and bodyguard. Again no conviction.

Mr. Hathaway went out to report the trial for reasons which are not apparently perceived by the ordinary run of American newspaper readers. Minnesota is the battleground between the Stalin and the Trotskyite communists. It is the only state in which the Trotskyites say they have an influential following. Their stronghold is the general drivers' council and, after two murders, their principal representatives are the three Dunne brothers—Grant, Miles and Vincent.

"The verdict of the jury," says Mr. Hathaway in his report, "was generally attributed to the strong case made by the defense attorneys during the closing arguments of the trial, which lasted twelve days. The concentrated their attack against the three Dunne brothers—Grant, Miles, and Vincent—all Trotskyites, implying that the solutions of the two murders—Brown and Corcoran—were to be found not in the conviction of the defendant but in the further examination of the Trotskyites. Though the defense attorneys did not say so in so many words, they implied that the murderers were to be found in the ranks of those who were struggling for control of the general drivers' council—the Trotskyites."

It might seem strange to persons not initiated in the mysteries of communist terrorism, why the Trotskyites should be suspected of killing men affiliated with them in their struggle for survival in Minnesota politics against the Stalinists. It is apparent, however, that communism has progressed to the stage in the United States where terrorism becomes a part of the tactics for political control. Stalin assassinated the Founding Fathers and old bolsheviks by the prostitution of judicial process, but many of the most distinguished soviet officials—generals, admirals, and diplomats—went the same death route taken by the minor thousands suspected of political or personal deviation. They were murdered in the dark.

If we are to take the communist interest in Minnesota politics merely at its face value, the conclusion must be that Moscow purge methods have begun to flower in the state which for a long time had been the most receptive. The communist feud is developing also in Michigan, but Minnesota is the pioneer in new American political methods. The communists are the principal activities of the New Deal.

Minnesota is the state in which Mr. Roosevelt two years ago, when he was running for reelection, removed the Democratic nominees for governor and United States senator to give the communist supported Farmer-Labor candidates a clear field. He, then, was himself the candidate for the Moscow vote.

Carrying Out The Open Door Policy

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There comes out of the War Department a fairly continuous stream of publicity about how well prepared we are—or are gonna be—in this dangerous new day of "excursions and alarms." Preparedness is relative to the probable danger. We are preparing, but we are a long way from being ready for even a small war.

There is no question that a very great improvement has been made in the army on all fronts in the past few years. We have, I think, the best corps of officers in the world, far better than ever before in our history. It is a pleasure to talk on any of the clean-cut streamlined products and to observe their eagerness, loyalty and ability. That is a highly important asset in any start toward preparedness, perhaps the most important of all assets.

Our National Guard is on an immeasurably higher standard than ever before, both officers and men.

Our air force is as good, if not as strong as any that flies and is about to be greatly strengthened. We have a very weak army in terms of numbers of men, but we proved by our methods in the World War, that getting men in overwhelming numbers and rapidly making soldiers out of them is the least of our preparedness problems.

Our trouble is equipment for these men, the so-called problem of industrial mobilization, converting our manufactures from production for peace to vastly increased production for war. Equipment has become far more technical and deadly and hence far more necessary than ever before. It can't be improvised. The embattled farmer of Lexington who took his flint-lock from the wall and drove off detachments of British regulars is a creature of the past. No equipment—no defense.

We learned a lot about "industrial mobilization" in 1918. The lesson has been eagerly and continuously studied by the war department. Many of our 1918 mistakes will be avoided and much better speed and production will result. But it is wrong to go to that from a conclusion that we are either prepared on this front or have it so well planned that we need not worry.

In the first place, it is not certain just what are our real needs in equipment. We have designed new and greatly improved weapons which are not in quantity production and could not be put on that basis quickly.

I think that no plan is yet made that even imagines the demands that will come from all our cities for anti-aircraft protection in the event of war. The silly radio-caused panic over Mr. Welles' attack from Mars proves that. There will be an overwhelming insistence on anti-aircraft forces split up in small detachments and pinned permanently down at a thousand spots on the map. It may even require an entirely different type of organization, something like a semi-military, semi-civilian, "home guard of the air" for every town and perhaps for every factory. The requirement for equipment and explosives will be tremendous and the industrial problem correspondingly vast.

As has been suggested here before, the advent of the terrible new

Fellow Citizens:

Mr. Louis Robinson's ignorance on the subject of the Townsend Plan, as displayed in his Nov. 5th contribution to these columns, is indeed refreshing.

Here are a few facts Mr. Robinson can muse over:

Dr. Townsend was a physician in South Dakota for many years, and when it became apparent to himself that his physical constitution and the harsh winters that prevail in that section could no longer work hand in hand, he sought a warmer climate. Just as thousands of other citizens have done in the past, and will continue to do in the future. He moved to Long Beach, where he obtained a job in the health department. This job brought him in contact with nearly all elderly people, and afforded him with the opportunity to study the causes for their maladies. These causes he directly traced to insufficient and improper medical care during their life and improper diets during their declining years. He resolved to in some way attempt to rectify matters, and necessarily found that the periodic expansion and contraction of our monetary system by a special few played a great role in these causes. He soon found that this special group had no end of financial power and influence over our present situation, and further, had no intention of yielding. The result has been a barrage of misquotations and misunderstandings, and misinformation, put out, of course, for the express purpose of discrediting the doctor's integrity. Mr. Robinson has done a neat job of accepting this trash.

Mr. Clements and Dr. Townsend started a small paper apart from the O.A.R.P., and each owned half interest in this little paper. The Doctor, after a while, proposed that they turn the proceeds over to the O.A.R.P. for the purpose of hiring speakers and distributing literature. Mr. Clements made it known that he was in no uncertain terms for the monetary gain only. Dr. Townsend immediately dismissed Mr. Clements as secretary of the O.A.R.P. and bought out Clements' interest in the paper. He then turned the entire paper and the proceeds over to the O.A.R.P. Mr. Clements' reference to his making $70,000 out of the Townsend Plan was the total of his investment in the paper, the $50,000 it took to buy out his interest in the paper, and his salary as secretary. If this is the "remnant of conscience" that Mr. Robinson holds up as proper, I suggest that Mr. Robinson investigate his own conscience.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1933 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Don't miss what the electoral waves are saying in Missouri. It has been a matter of some authentic gossip that the Clark-for-President ship might be launched on the crest of those returns, but few appreciate the extent to which plans and specifications have developed. An informal survey of senatorial political leadership has actually been made by one eminent authority to develop what kind of support Senator Bennett Champ Clark might expect for 1940.

With or without authorization about 14 senators and a vice-president were counted as the potential nucleus for a Clark movement. Names on the list are powerful: Garner, Burke, Bailey, Bulow, Connally, George, Gerry, King, Gillette, Herring, Loneragan, McCarran and probably Byrd, Tydings and Pat Harrison, although the latter three may be favorite son candidates at the outset.

No one else in the picture can show anything like this strength—except Mr. Roosevelt who could exceed it.

Surveyors also have measured power of what might be called the Roosevelt clan in the Senate.

This indicated the President might command almost equal strength in numbers, but not in experience or influence. Listed as probably for anyone whom Mr. Roosevelt would be for were: Schwelbensch, Minton, Green, Smathers, Murray, Neely, Guffey, Brown (Mich.), Ellender, Bankhead, Hill, Lee—and, if they pull through, Bulkeley, Duffy and Macmillan. Lincoln suggested a conflict which would be the political struggle of the century, with deciding influence in the hands of General Farley.

It indicated clearly that Garner and Farley together could prevent the nomination of a Roosevelt candidate—which possibility is not remote.

Question will next arise whether Hopkins or Farley is chairman of the Democratic National committee.

Ordinarily Farley does all the official claiming in pre-election statements. This time, PWA Administrator Harry Hopkins emerged from Hyde Park and announced he had made a survey indicating the Democrats would sweep the west, particularly Murphy would sweep Michigan.

News-men did not believe it because they have Hopkins' own word in several announcements that he does not countenance politics in his organization and therefore can know nothing about the subject. Confirmation came the same day when Hopkins' assistant, Aubrey Williams, announced he had ascertained there was utterly no truth in the charge that the WPA was in politics in Pennsylvania.

Nevertheless, Hopkins' occasional presumptions that as head of WPA he knows who is going to win and alter political things are getting into the two or three hairs Farley has left.

Sharp Republicans plucked from the newspapers what was supposed to be Jim Farley's last advance.

list of seats he expected to lose by states. Leaping to telephones, they called their leaders in these states and told them Farley was conceding.

In each state was able to, or did, arise and announce he was no longer campaigning for himself as Farley conceded. "I will, therefore, speak for the state ticket," said the Republican candidates, without a smile.

Word was not long getting back to Democratic headquarters where it caused no smiles. An official denial of the authenticity of the list was rushed to the press.

Mr. Roosevelt's business prophets figured (before the counting started) the election would have no immediate economic effects—unless Republican house gains went above 60 seats. In that case, the stock market might express a few minor hallelujahs in celebration.

Time apparently has gone when business bogs down during election campaigns, then expands from sheer relief. Perhaps government expenditures make so much business during campaigns that bogging is thus prevented.

One beneficial result of the election was noticeable before the votes were counted. Both Michelson and Walmston swore off columning for the present.

Democratic Columnist, Charles Michelson, called up Franklin Walmston, the Republican columnist, and asked: "Say, don't you want a rest?" Walmston greed he did except that he had a particularly good column in mind for next Sunday.

Both thereupon arranged that after Sunday they would cease firing for a few months, upon Michelson's assurance that the anti-monopoly committee would not hold such an agreement in restraint of the columnist trade.

The Farm Plan Headache

By ERIK MCKINLEY ERIKSSON

Professor of History, University of Southern California

Five and a half years ago Henry A. Wallace assumed the office of Secretary of Agriculture and with great assurance set out to solve the baffling problem of the American farmer. Conceiving it to be the problem to be one of over-production, Mr. Wallace and his advisers hastened to formulate a program for the creation of an artificial scarcity. The first Agricultural Adjustment Act was rushed through Congress and the little later legislation for the compulsory control of cotton, tobacco, sugar and potatoes was enacted. Little pigs were slaughtered, cotton was ploughed under and quotas were established for various crops. Processing taxes were imposed and millions of dollars in benefits were presented to farmers who complied with the conditions imposed by the government.

Aided by droughts, the program for a time seemed to be working in such a way as to justify itself. At least the income of the farmers increased, thus affording the administration an opportunity to claim that its program was successful. In January, 1936, the Supreme Court dealt a severe blow to the plan when it ruled out the processing taxes and declared that, since agriculture is not mentioned in the Constitution, the federal government has no constitutional right to exercise a compulsory control over the nation's farmers. Instead of seeking a constitutional amendment to secure the desired power, the planners quickly put through Congress a new law which made it possible to keep a stream of benefit checks going to farmers who agreed to cooperate in a program of soil conservation and erosion control. Since this 1936 law did not permit a control of agriculture rigid enough to suit the Wallace group, they secured the enactment of still another law, the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. This latest act restores to the Secretary of Agriculture much of the power which he formerly enjoyed in years when production of wheat, corn, wheat, oats and soybeans exceeded the normal supply, he is authorized to proclaim marketing quotas, thus in effect, establishing a compulsory control over any or all of these crops. Each quota plan, unless rejected by a referendum in the farmers affected, is specified, shall apply to the next marketing year.

Instead of proving a solution to the farm problem this new law seems merely to have increased the discontent of the agriculturists. Many farmers, especially in the corn belt, have been outspoken against the legislation and have even attempted to organize an active opposition to it. More serious than this is the fact that 1938 has been a good year for crops. Rain has been plentiful and nature has responded with a bountiful yield. Even with reduced acreages large surpluses have been produced. The result has been an increasing demand for larger crop loans and greater subsidies.

Confronted by the failure of the crop control program the New Deal agricultural planners have almost frantically sought for some method of disposing of the surpluses. Proposals have been made to fix the domestic price of agricultural products and then have the government take over the surplus not needed for domestic consumption and "dump" it in foreign markets for whatever it will bring.

This Wallace does not wish to do. In any case the procedure would interfere with Secretary of State Hull's reciprocity treaty program. Still another proposal is to establish a domestic "two price" system under which all with an income which would be established as a standard would pay the regular market price for goods while the surplus would be taken over by the government and distributed to the low income groups at a reduced price. Unsound though the proposal appears to be it is certain to receive considerable support in the next session of Congress.

Meanwhile the farm problem is Mr. Wallace's headache. Whether he will attempt to cure it by advocating the two price system alone is doubtful for he is on record as favoring the restoration of processing taxes and as desiring a stricter control of production. His proposals should cause plenty of fireworks when Congress meets.

"We'll meet you in the grill room at 7. You won't have any trouble recognizing us, because I'll be wearing a rose."

Children of school age ought to be especially careful about washing their hands, brushing their hair and teeth. School is a place of many meetings. Child meets children, germs meet more germs. Soap and water and plenty of them after every session should be used with right good will if the children are to keep well.

Of course they know this. Everybody has told them about it. Everybody has said, "Look at those hands! Why don't you wash them? I've told you about that a thousand times. Go this minute and wash yourself, and while you're about it do your hair. And don't slight your teeth, either."

Why don't they attend to this without constant prodding? Because they are the sons and daughters of their parents. Who likes to keep washing and brushing and wiping the basin out clean? In the morning routine habit, forced by public opinion, carries us through the morning toilet, but when, during the day, another doing is needed the bathroom is miles away, those stairs break one's back, the water isn't warm enough, and anyway, we'll wait until just before mealtime. And we have been at it for a lifetime. We're just naturally Unfussy.

Children are natural, too, and they are deeply interested in so many things — meals, play, the coming circus, their turn at the bat — that washing hands and brushing teeth have to be shoved in between with a sturdy force behind them. There are ways of lightening the burden of supervision. Suggestion is a great help. If instead of having to go upstairs to the bathroom, there was a close-by and handy place in the garage, on the back porch, on the first floor right by the door, it would help. And it would save the family bathroom, too.

I know they ought to know enough to go to the bathroom and wash and brush, but I know too, that they won't. It is going to take a lot of teaching before this cleanliness habit takes hold, and in the meantime we have to push it along so as to prevent some of the illness that threatens school children. Make the washing and brushing as easy and convenient as possible, and get the job done.

Schools are lacking in this essential part of equipment. Washrooms are provided for the teachers always, but for the children, rarely. They go to recess, play madly for twenty minutes to half an hour, fall on the playground floor, or the yards go to the toilet; lay hands on each other and roll together on the earth, and at the signal, go back to class.

The teachers are put to it to get clean work from them. How can a child work on a sheet of white paper with hands that are grimy? Writing is not easy for the younger ones. Their hands perspire; they become muddy, are wiped on hair or pants or apron, and the results are something that would shock the hygienists. Yet the school must guard its children's health, and the teacher must present clean work to the supervisor.

There is plenty of water in the world, and some soap. Paper towels are not prohibitive. The greatest cost is in building the rooms and manning them. Measured against the children's present discomfort and the threat to their health, isn't it very small?

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Women Only Are Invited To Show Of Mental Expert

Said to be America's foremost mentalist, Jaye Clarke, who opened a week's engagement at the West Coast theater here last Saturday, will conduct a special matinee for women only tomorrow, it was announced today. The box office opens at 1 p. m., after which the ladies attending can remain to see the Technicolor saga of aviation, "Men With Wings," with Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell.

Clarke is not the usual type of "psychic marvel" wearing turban and all the other so-called glamour of the East. Rather, he is a personable young man who looks more like a theater press agent than his high-priced star. He came to Santa Ana after a string of impressive personal appearances at the largest theaters on the Pacific Coast.

Clarke makes no claims as a fortune teller or mind reader, his entire ability being based on claims to a keenly developed sense of intuition combined with a world of experience in psychology and human relations. Astrology is another of his natural fortes, and he uses it freely in answering many of his most difficult and baffling questions.

In 1928 he won the $10,000 award offered by the National Institute for Research on Mentalism, and thereby gained international prominence. Since that time box office records have been shattered at leading theaters throughout the country when he appeared.

NEGRO JITTERBUG CONTEST PLANNED

Thursday evening Walkers will again bring something new to the theater-goers of Orange county, with the presentation of an all-Negro jitterbug contest on their stage. The evening's regular screen fare, "The Lady Objects," featuring the well known radio star, Lanny Ross, and "Speed to Burn," a thrilling race-track story starring Michael Whalen and Lynn Bari, will be shown in addition to the stage show.

Manager Vic Walker was able this week to engage the services of the popular orchestra of Ev and Red Wallace, playing each week end at the Rendezvous ballroom at Balboa. The Wallace brothers, who have been on tour for several seasons with vaudeville acts, have enlarged their orchestra and now have a novel and very entertaining organization. Their musical style, with the accent on the brass section, is made-to-order for stage dancing, as well as ballroom dancing. Ev Wallace, while leading the band, will also handle the stage show as master of ceremonies. All picture, as well as vaudeville fans know that Negroes are the leading exponents of jitterbug dancing, so Thursday's show should be one of the most entertaining programs to be presented locally. Darwin Scott, of Scott's Malt shop will present the cash prizes to the winning couples.

Sheppard Backers Get Early Thrill

Supporters of Congressman Harry R. Sheppard received a sharp thrill about 10 p. m. yesterday when returns from scattered precincts in San Bernardino county showed him far in the lead of Mayor C. T. Early reports from San Bernardino county said Congressman Sheppard was out in front of Mayor Johnson by a total of 1067 votes, and was leading the mayor in the latter's own city by 337 tallies.

SAYS WAGNER ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

EMPLOYER BAR HELD ILLEGAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Ford Motor Company attorneys contended before the National Labor Relations Board today that the Wagner Act was unconstitutional if it forbids an employer from expressing anti-union opinions to his workers.

Challenging the intermediate report of Trial Examiner Francis M. Shea, concerning alleged labor relations law violations at the Buffalo, N. Y., assembly plant, Ford denied that it had discriminated against employees because of membership in the United Automobile Workers' union or committed unfair labor practices.

Challenges Shea's Act
It challenged Shea's right to order reinstatement of 50 discharged workers with back pay, and declared that 36 of this group had refused an unconditional offer of reinstatement by the firm on Jan. 10, 1938.

Shea, dean of the Buffalo Law School, ruled that the company had violated the act by distributing alleged anti-union propaganda, including the "Ford Almanac," Ford gives viewpoint on labor, and Henry Ford's "Fordisms," and said:

In Direct Appeal
"These almanacs and pamphlets... constitute a direct appeal to the working men to avoid labor organizations and a threat that the consequence of organization will be that their wage level will decline. I consider that the distribution of these materials was a deliberate effort on the part of the management to interfere with and restrain employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed by section 7 of the national labor relations act."

No Misrepresentation
Ford replied to this by declaring that "neither the almanac nor the pamphlet contains any statement, which, by any reasoning, may be considered as interference with or restraint or coercion of employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed to them."

"There is no threat of discharge but an unequivocal statement that respondent will not seek to prevent any employees from joining a union; there is no misrepresentation of facts but merely presentation of economic theories; and no coercion was exercised in their dissemination, each employee being free to determine whether or not to take a copy," the company's brief said.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Various Study Groups
Of Woman's Club
In Session This Week

Although this was not the week for a general meeting of Woman's club of Santa Ana, its members found the days filled with interest, since so many of the section groups held all-day or afternoon meetings.

Drama and Music

Opening the week's activities for the club members was Monday afternoon's meeting of Drama and Music section with Mrs. George Paes, 1503 Louise street. A playlet for future production was rehearsed after which Mrs. William Kuhn read from Van H. Cartwell's "Hand Book for Amateur Actors," one of the study books selected by the section. Mrs. William E. Dennis gave excerpts from another study book, "What Your Voice Reveals," by Helen Hathaway.

Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Paes served tea to her guests, Mesdames E. A. Elwell, Earl M. Waycott, G. E. Arterburn, William E. Dennis, H. R. Jones, M. O. Wells, William Kuhn and L. G. Holman.

Poetry Section

Poetry section, meeting yesterday morning with Mrs. J. E. Braden, 2311 North Ross street, heard a short review of the life of Amy Lowell, by Mrs. Margaret Church. Several of Miss Lowell's poems were read by members. Mrs. Frank Jones, the day's program chairman, discussed cadence and requisite points in modern poetry.

Since the section is devoting the year to study of modern poetry, this was kept in mind in a group of original poems offered. They were "Oak Trees" and "Dark Eyes," Miss Blanche Seely; "The Sun's Ray," Mrs. E. G. Warner; "The Sea," Mrs. Jean Bohlander; "The Wind," Mrs. M. O. Wells; "Jewels," Mrs. Jones, and "Church Chimes," Mrs. Braden.

Mrs. B. H. Higgins, London, Ontario, Canada, sister of Mrs. Jones, and a guest in her home, read two of her poems, "God's Speed" and "Unspoken." Mrs. Higgins writes under the pen name of Ruth Holway Higgins, her poems having been published by several of the leading magazines in Canada.

Miss Seely will be in charge of the program when this section next meets, at the home of Mrs. Bohlander, 822 South Birch street.

Tuesday was also meeting day for Philanthropy section, 25 whose members and guests were grouped around small tables in the home of Mrs. William Kenny, 829 South Sycamore street, for a covered-dish luncheon.

Mrs. E. O. Ahern directed the afternoon's activities in the absence of Mrs. G. V. Linsendard, section leader. Each member chose the type of work she wished to do, and in readiness to meet the section's many demands, and others folding Christmas seals for mailing.

At the next covered dish luncheon of this group, in the home of Mrs. Linsendard, a Christmas party will be enjoyed and each member is asked to bring a ten-cent gift for the exchange box.

Present with Mrs. Kenny were Mesdames George L. Wright, J. E. Prentice, Maud Harbour, William Whitehead, Charles Hoehn, Nannie Myers, S. May Matthews, Margaret Kelly, J. H. Tompkins, Lowell M. Witty, H. R. Jones, E. R. Lepper, C. R. Walter, E. O. Ahern, Jennie Clem, E. M. Waycott, R. W. Cole, Julia Mae Eggert, M. Kelly, M. O. Wells, George Gould, J. E. Braden, William Kuhn, R. A. McMahon, and Miss Linda Kroeker.

Foundation Fund

First of a series of Foundation Fund parties was held recently with Mrs. F. DeLoe, 209 Cypress avenue. Three tables, flower-adorned, were employed for serving a dessert course and for anagrams play in the afternoon hours.

Mrs. E. G. Warner took first prize. Mrs. DeLoe's guests were Mesdames Eva E. Irwin, Effie Hammett, J. H. Tompkins, R. W. Cole, E. G. Warner, C. F. Crose, S. E. Littrell, Charles Hoehn, with Mrs. Fred Huntress of Los Angeles, Mrs. F. Moyer of Cleveland, Rhio, Mrs. Charles Oakes and daughter, Miss Mary Oakes.

Mrs. Farry Satter, Foundation Fund chairman, announced the plan of this group to sell aprons, cookies and home-made mince meat after the meeting of the general club next Tuesday.

State P. E. O.
Leader Feted
By Mrs. Nau

Quite the most interesting affair for which members of Chapter DI P. E. O. have been assembled recently was the tea at which the president, Mrs. Samuel W. Nau, entertained in her home on Tustin avenue in compliment to Mrs. Ethel Desparois, P. E. O. state inspector.

The late afternoon event came as a climax to Mrs. Desparois' inspection visit to the chapter. This had been made officially earlier in the day following a luncheon at which Mrs. Nau received her officers.

In the executive group with Mrs. Nau and Mrs. Desparois were Mesdames Hugh Plumb, John I. Wehrly, Ernest C. Phillips, E. S. Gilbert, Franklin West, Nat Neff, W. H. Harrison, A. J. Cruickshank, Warren Brakeman, L. M. Forney and Cood Adams. They enjoyed luncheon while seated at a beautifully arranged table spread with a lace and linen Italian cloth and Dresden china which Mrs. Nau served during one of her European trips. Chrysanthemums in P. E. O. colors of yellow and white formed a centerpiece.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Desparois inspected the books. A special feature was a display of Chapter DI album and history, new projects just completed.

At the close of the afternoon, the official group was joined by the general membership. Mrs. Hugh Plumb poured tea and Mrs. Cood Adams served ices. Small cakes and other dainties were included on the tea table. With her pretty frock, the honoree wore a corsage bouquet sent by the chapter, whose members also provided a basket of white and yellow chrysanthemums as a gift for Mrs. Nau.

Special Dances Mark
Coming A. W. S. Affair

The Lambeth walk will be a feature of the semi-formal dance to be given by Junior College Associates. Women students Saturday night in Memorial hall, Huntington Beach. A number of dances also will be included. Two local clothing stores are offering door prizes.

Officers and committee members for the dance are keeping the name of the orchestra a secret. "It will be an exceptionally good one, however," promised Miss Barbara Speed, A.W.S. president.

Bridge Players Enjoy
Party as Finale to Election Night

With a mutual interest in election results, members of an informal evening bridge club decided to make the night of election day an occasion for one of their friendly get-togethers. Mrs. Emrys D. White took the role of hostess, welcoming the group and a few additional friends to her home, 2115 North Broadway.

Bridge play was more or less desultory, for it was constantly interrupted by telephone calls to learn how the election was going. By 11 o'clock reports of the mid-night hour approached, the hostess served a refreshing supper course, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Emrys White Jr., and her sister, Miss Carolyn White, down from Redlands for a short visit.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth with Mrs. Chenoweth's mother and aunt, Mrs. Maurice Clark of this city, and Mrs. Gilbert Atchison, here from Edwardsville, Ind., for a Southern land visit; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Spurgeon Jr., with Mrs. Spurgeon's mother, Mrs. A. C. Abbott, Sherill Spurgeon Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Terry E. Stepenston, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carden, with the Emrys Whites, for an election party. Their friendly plans included the serving of a dessert course in advance of the bridge program. Tables were quite inviting with their pretty linens and flowers.

The hostess trio received in addition to Mrs. Bennie, Mesdames Fenton Dean, Jerry Lindsay, George Nelson, Dolph Kelsey, Milton Poppert, Luther Davidson, Jack Rimmel, Thomas Clark, James Merigold, Osborne Holmes, Lincoln Spaulding, Quentin Matson, H. As host to a group of friends recently in his Tustin home, Drennan Ahern had planned a lively evening of hearts and Chinese checkers for entertainment of his guests. Miss Della Chapman, Miss Lela Daniel, Jerry Nesmith and Dan Kauffman made the evening's high scores and received attractive prizes.

Card tables later were arranged with linens and bright flowers for refreshments served by Mrs. E. O. Ahern. Sharing the pleasant plans made by the host were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Nesmith, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Park, the Misses Joanne Linsendard, Lela Daniel, Theron Kidd, Dorothy Black, Paye Nehrig, Della Chapman, Mrs. Harvey Gulick, Mrs. Ahern, and Mesdames Jay Mills, Ralph Kidd, Earl Kidd, Dan Kauffman and Gill Nehrig.

INFORMAL MUSICALS

Now that Mr. and Mrs. Fitch A. Birchard and their daughter, Miss Arline Birchard, are nicely settled in the home at 1804 Greenleaf street, to which they recently moved from 410 Fairview avenue, they are celebrating the occasion with an informal musical-housewarming Thursday afternoon and evening.

The hours from 3:30 to 5 o'clock will be observed in the afternoon, and Miss Birchard, who maintains her music studio in the home, will present the young people of her piano classes who have not yet reached junior college age, in a recital program. Evening hours will have the same musical charm, and young people presenting the recital will be Miss Birchard's pupils of junior college age.

Mrs. Tessmann Reviews
"Fannie Kemble" for
Ebel Section

Mrs. John Tessmann's review of "Fannie Kemble" by Margaret Armstrong highlighted last night's meeting of Ebel Lives and Times section in the home of Mrs. Frank Harrington, 1114 North Lowell street.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Tevis Westgate, program chairman. Mrs. Wayne Harrison conducted a short meeting, during which plans were made to have a Christmas party Tuesday, December 13 in the home of Mrs. Edward M. Hall, 1901 Heliotrope drive.

Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Harold Harrington were co-hostesses last night, decking the home with "mums." Yellow and white was the motif observed in the dining room, where tea was poured by Mrs. Stanley Anderson.

Present with Mrs. Tessmann and the co-hostesses were Mesdames Stanley Anderson, Leland Finley, Wayne Harrison, William Jeffrey, Lyle Kelly, John V. Newman, Arnold Norton, Kingsley Tuttle, Tevis Westgate, Richard Winkler and Burt Zaiser, members; with Mesdames John Stubbington, James Utt, Hume West and Rolla Hayes Jr., guests.

Visitors From Italy
Departing Today

Today brings conclusion to the Santa Ana visit of Mrs. Gianni Berardi and her little daughter, Mariella, who have spent the past few weeks here with Mrs. Berardi's father, Newton W. Gilbert, 611 West Bishop street. Late this afternoon the two will leave for Hollywood to be dinner guests of friends there, and later to board the train for the east, on the first stage of their journey back to their home in Florence, Italy.

Newton W. Gilbert and Mr. and Mrs. Guy J. Gilbert will accompany them into the city and be entertained at the same dinner event, before seeing the travelers off on their transcontinental journey. Mrs. Berardi and little Mariella will spend some two weeks with friends in Washington, D. C. before sailing from New York at the end of the month.

Last night the Guy J. Gilberts were dinner hosts in their home, 529 South Barton street, at a farewell family gathering in compliment to the mother and daughter. They had also Mrs. Berardi's father, Newton W. Gilbert, the Paul Gilberts and the Robert Gilberts with their small son, Bobbie.

Birthday Party Given
For Miss Groff

Assembling Monday night at the home of Miss Stella Groff, 508 West Eighth street, a friendly little group celebrated "Happy Birthday to You" as the initial feature of a surprise party planned a celebration of the birthday anniversary of their hostess.

The honoree was presented with a number of gifts. Guests provided a pretty cake which was served with chocolate.

In the group were Mesdames C. H. Baird, E. C. Hunter, H. V. Carre, Edith Osborn, W. D. Guthrie, A. L. Eells, George Munro, Leon Lauderbach, L. Colyn and the Misses Eugenia Henry, Janice De Haan, Grace Denman and Miss Groff.

Kappa Delta Phi Have Dinner, Initiation

Kappa Delta Phi sorority's initiation of seven new members was an impressive event of last night in Balboa Peninsula cafe, where candlelight ceremonies were conducted by the president, Miss Marene Cook.

Dinner was served at a chrysanthemum-decked table appointed with favors of recognition pins for the pledges. In addition, each received a corsage bouquet of tea roses.

New members are the Misses Phyllis Hefke, Florence Wasson, Fern Anderson, Mildred Pearson, Nadine Pennington, Mildred Crowe and Lorraine Wheeler. Others present were Miss Cook, Miss Floretta Harmon and Mesdames Charles Woodfill, Walter Stark, Meredith Crumley and Frances Lacy.

Betrothal Is Announced To Supper Group

To members of her intimate little upper club, Miss June Licht chose to make first announcement of her betrothal to Robert Bradley, and the news lent the charm of romance to Monday night's party in the home of Miss Dorothy Van Deusen, 724 Oak street.

This supper club has semi-monthly meetings, always events of gay charm. Last night members shared an Italian supper, and Miss Van Deusen, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Clarence Van Deusen, had a table garlanded with chrysanthemums and set with colorful pottery in readiness for the supper hour and its toothsome dishes.

It was not until the guests sought places for the evening's bridge play that they were aware of the romantic trend of the evening. When cards were shuffled for the first round of contract, one card leaped to light, bearing the inscription, "Bob and June—Spring."

That it was appropriate that Miss Licht should confide first in this group of friends, is seen when it is recalled that all have been closely associated throughout Santa Ana school life almost from kindergarten days. The popular bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Licht, so recently returned to Santa Ana after a few months' residence in Long Beach. Mr. Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Atwood Bradley, 1612 South Van Ness avenue, also went through the Santa Ana schools, and is now in the used car department of a local automobile company.

Mrs. Emmett Seacord was a special guest at Monday night's pleasant affair, laying for Mrs. Howard Hitchcock (Lorna Berry) now absent on a northern trip. Others present with Miss Van Deusen and the honoree, Miss Licht, were Mrs. Milford Carman (Julienne Wolven), the Misses Lois Murray, Arden Murray, Gwen Griffin and Erlene Farmer.

Wedding and Birthday
Anniversaries
Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Carden's 54th wedding anniversary was celebrated with a Sunday afternoon tea at which their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Engel Hood, entertained in their home in Irvine.

The occasion bore double significance, since it also marked the birthday anniversary of the hostess. She received a number of gifts, and Mr. and Mrs. Carden too, were feted with presents from the intimate family group assembled.

White Chinese chrysanthemums and tapers were embellishments on the dining room table from which birthday cake and other dainties were served. Mrs. Lester Carden poured. Chrysanthemums and daisies in the living room added to the charming setting.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Carden, Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Carden and children, Bill and Dorothy Alice; J. S. Hill and daughter and son, Marjorie Alice and John William; and Herbert Lester Hill Jr., great grandson of the honored pair; with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Hood. Mrs. Hood is the former Helen Carden Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Carden, long-time residents of Santa Ana, were married in Iowa.

Family Group Attends
81st Birthday
Dinner

H. P. Christensen's 81st birthday Saturday was given pleasant observance the following day with a family dinner party at which he and Mrs. Christensen received in their home on Holt avenue, Tustin.

The hosts provided guinea fowl as the main dish of an inviting dinner to which guests contributed vegetables and other dishes. Decorations in pink and white included quantities of pink zinnias and white chrysanthemums from the home gardens.

Mrs. Christensen provided a large birthday cake lighted with 81 candles. This centered the table at which dinner was served. There were two other confections, one brought by the host's daughter, Mrs. Madeline Robertson, and another by Mrs. Pearl Parker.

J. Byran Christensen and Harold Christensen of Bakersfield, were unable to attend their father's birthday party, sent gifts. There were many other remembrances, including an indirect-lighting lamp which guests joined in presenting the celebrant.

Chinese checkers and cards were played during the affair, shared by Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Natland, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reafsnider and daughter, Donna of Garden Grove, C. U. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hardcastle and Mrs. George Brockaw, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vlaschaert and daughter, Caroline, Costa Mesa; Mrs. Pearl Parker, Anaheim; Mrs. Madeline Robertson and children, Voreen and Billie, Los Angeles; Mrs. Effie Christensen and the hosts, Tustin.

Date Set for Annual Holiday Dance

Discussing plans for their annual Christmas dance to be held Saturday night, December 10 in the Y.W.C.A. rooms, members of Wrycende Maegden club met last night in the clubrooms for dinner and an informal meeting.

Miss Leone Baxter, president, appointed Miss Margaret Fries chairman of the dance. Assisting on the committee will be Miss Roma Mayes. Members, former members and friends are invited to attend the holiday affair, it was announced.

At the close of the meeting, Miss Margaret Standish conducted a class in crafts.

Mrs. E. E. Knipe will tell of her travels in Europe at next week's dinner meeting.

Hostess Entertains
Worth While Club

With a dozen Worth While club members as her guests, Mrs. George Ebercole entertained pleasantly this week in her home, 118 West Nineteenth street. Plans were made for a similar afternoon on Thursday, November 17 when Mrs. A. Lagasse and Mrs. L. A. Galloway will receive in the home of Mrs. Lagasse, 818 North Sycamore street.

For the informal program, Mrs. C. F. Millen told of her interesting summer journey back to points in Illinois and Iowa, after which Mrs. Geeting was introduced to talk on the amendments on the November ballot. After giving serious consideration to this theme, Mrs. Geeting introduced a note of lightness with several clever readings.

Fertile Field Offered
By Fall Books for Ebell Review

Heading her list of books for November reviewing with Wilfred J. Funk's "When the Merry-Go-Round Breaks Down," Mrs. Jack Valley has taken as theme for her appearance Monday afternoon before Ebell society, a lengthy quotation from the book. This is "These are troubled times, little Grischu. But don't bother that curly head of yours too much. Civilization is always coming to a end. . . . But it never does, my dear. It never does. 'When the Lord gave men matches to play with, He made the world fireproof.'"

Others on the list submitted to Robert J. Brown in readiness for the programs which he presents to the clubwomen, include Carl Van Doren's "Benjamin Franklin," "Can Women Be Gentlemen?" by Gertrude Atherton; "The Hired Man on Horseback" by May D. Rhodes; Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Listen! The Wind;" "Charles Laughton and I" by Elsa Lanchester, and "My Sister Aileen" by Ruth McKenney. Robert Nathan's "Journey of Tappan;" William Cary Duncan's "Golden Hoofs;" Rachel Field's "All This and Heaven Too;" Daphne du Maurier's "Rebecca," and George R. Stewart's "East of the Giants" complete the book list. In addition Mrs. Valley will follow her usual custom of discussing world events. Her introduction will follow the monthly business meeting of the society under presidency of Mrs. W. S. Thomson.

Dealing particularly with the care of crippled children of Orange county, Miss Dixon's summary provided an informative program feature.

Miss Patton served pumpkin pie, coffee and tea, assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. A. Patton, who presided at the dining room table. Bouquets of zinnias provided a colorful party setting. Present were Mrs. Edward Power and Miss Dorothy Jester, Anaheim; Mrs. Ross Shafer, Miss Mary Tuthill, Mrs. John Jacobs, Miss Mabel Dixon and Miss Barbara Rurup, Santa Ana; Mrs. Edna Congdon and Miss Margaret Swingle, Huntington Beach, and the hostess, Miss Patton.

Have you ever served roasted corned leg of pork? If it is new there is a pleasant surprise in store for you. The price is about that of fresh leg of pork, and considerably under the price of ham.

Boil the corned pork almost to the done stage. Season the water if you wish, with a bay leaf, spoonful of peppercorns, cup of vinegar and cup of brown sugar. Drain the cooked pork, remove skin and rub with crumbs and sugar. Place in roasting pan and brown in open pan. Add a cup of water and as many peeled sweet potatoes as desired. Cover and bake in medium oven until potatoes are done and the roast very tender. Take up roast and potatoes, add a cup of cider and handful of raisins to pan gravy, boil up, thicken slightly and simmer for 15 minutes. Serve as

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S FAVORITE DISHES

Carrots and Rice en Casserole
1½ cups shredded raw carrots
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 cup cooked rice
1 cup grated yellow cheese
1 beaten egg
Salt and pepper.

Parboil the shredded carrots for five minutes in salted water. Drain well. Combine carrots, rice, salt and pepper with ¾ of the cup of cheese. Stir the beaten egg through the mixture, spread in a buttered casserole, sprinkle top with remaining cheese and bake 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

The carrot-rice casserole should not occupy the whole of the oven in solitary state. Plan an overcooked meal. For meat, have braided veal or pork chops, or meat balls done in a Spanish sauce, and have pie or pudding of some sort, served hot. The salad, if any, must be one of simple greens, tossed with a little oil and vinegar.

Chiffon Corn Bread

1½ cups milk, scalded
1 cup white or yellow corn meal sifted into boiling milk and stirred into a thick mush
4 tablespoons butter beaten into mush
½ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar
4 egg yolks whipped, strained and beaten with 1 teaspoon baking powder
4 egg whites, beaten stiff.

Whip butter into hot mush until sufficiently cool to take the egg yolk without cooking it. Add other seasonings, fold in the whipped whites and spread the fluffy batter in a shallow buttered drip pan. Bake the bread 20 minutes in a 400 degree oven and serve piping hot.

For party service, bake the bread in muffin tins or corn stick pans. Add sliced maraschino cherries to the batter when baked in muffin tins.

Spoon Bread

Take the recipe for chiffon corn bread, and to the hot mush add 1 cup cold milk, double the butter, add salt and sugar, and cut the baking powder mixed with egg yolks to ¼ teaspoonful. Fold in whipped whites and spoon into a deep casserole, generously spread with butter. Bake in a slow oven about 50 minutes. Serve from the casserole.

Co-hostesses Present
Shower Compliment
To Bride-niece

One of the week's pleasant events on a theme of romance, was the miscellaneous shower of Monday night in the Paul W. Tucker home, 409 Orange avenue, where Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. F. C. Matthews, complimented their bride-niece, Mrs. Roy Currutt, the former Miss Theda Tucker.

A motif of autumn appeared in the many clusters of bronze chrysanthemums which brightened the rooms. They formed a brilliant background for tables where court whist was played. Mrs. Sarah Matthews and Mrs. Lottie Nordstrom made first and second high scores in the game and received pretty prizes.

Interest reached its height during the interval when Mrs. Currutt was seated in the center of a ring of friends, to unwrap a collection of be-ribboned packages. The very lovely gifts included many pieces of crystal and choice linens.

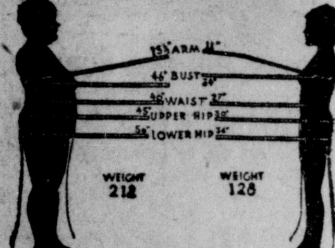

Card tables again came into service for the final feature of the hospitality, when the hostesses served a two-course supper menu to their guests.

SERIAL STORY

LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE
COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOFF—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.
DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.
JACK HANLEY—Bying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.
MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday Dwight breaks the stunning news to Judy that he loves Marvel Hastings, is going to marry her, and is preparing to go home.

CHAPTER III

SHE didn't sleep much that night. She told herself fiercely that it was not because she was breaking her heart over Dwight Campbell. It was only because Jack Hanley had been so blasted right about him!

The next morning, as she sat on the front porch listlessly, Mrs. Lane came up the stairs. Mrs. Lane was the wife of the captain they had dined with last night. And Mrs. Lane said brightly, "Why, Judy! I thought you and that nice Lieutenant Campbell were having a regular little affair, and now I hear he's going to marry some girl from the East!"

Dwight then had lost no time in announcing his coming marriage. Captain Lane was his skipper. Judy forced herself to smile. "Oh, he spent all his time with me telling me about her."

Mrs. Lane patted her. "You're a good girl, Judy." Judy knew she was thinking of Ward Fenning, and of how it had been five years. . . . Five years, and Judy Alcott still was not engaged.

The phone rang, and then her mother was calling her. She wondered viciously if that was one of the station glad-girls, eager to pump her. But, surprisingly, it was Dwight Campbell's voice that answered her guarded, "Hello."

"Listen, Judy, I've wired Marvel. He'll be here Saturday—I couldn't wait a week! I'd like you to come with me to the airport to meet her. You've been my best friend here, and I know you'll like her. She'll need a Navy woman to sort of show her around—get her started—"

Refusal was on the tip of her tongue. But she did the sporting thing. "Of course, Dwight. I'd love to!"

"That's fine, then. She gets in at Lindbergh Field Saturday at 10:15 in the morning. I'll call for you at a quarter of ten."

The phone rang again. This time it was a girl's voice, and Judy waited. But it was not one of the gossip brigade, it was Diane Bell, who had just had a new baby.

"You never have time for me, Judy! Come on over and see little Billy, he's the darlings thing! Give the boys friends the go-by for one day. I'll fix you something good for lunch."

"I'll have Guam salad," said Judy. Diane, as a young girl, had lived in Guam, where her father was in charge of the station, and she was always boasting about how she had learned to make meals with practically nothing from the States—strictly island fare. Her Guam salad was famous. It was made with California avocados.

It was only a short distance to the Bell's small cottage. Bill Bell was a flyer in Jack's squadron. His pay, even with flight pay, had performed nobly in commanding the services of a famous obstetrician when Diane had this baby, last month, but without the savings that Diane had engineered so gamely in this little bungalow, they couldn't have made it.

JUDY parked her car. In the doorway, Diane was standing, the baby in her arms. Her dark eyes danced, her ivory skin glowed.

"Darling!" said Judy. "You look wonderful!"

"Never felt better in my life," Judy remembered the pale, wan countenance on the hospital pillow and said, "There was a time when I doubted you'd ever be the same!" She peeked into the opening at the top of the little bundle of blankets. "Oh, Diane, isn't he little!"

"What'd you expect?" "But he's so sweet! Oh, oh, look, he's smiling at me!" "He's merely well fed, and smiles because his tummy feels good. I keep telling Bill that, but he doesn't believe me."

She put the baby in its crib, pointing to the stuffed elephant on the dresser. "Bill, the fool, thinks that's just right for our child. At the age of one, he will probably present him with a Navy bomber."

After Diane had told her all about how marvelously Bill was taking her absorption in the baby, "Even washes diapers when he gets a minute!" she asked about Judy.

"You, my dear, look peaked!" "Slightly," Judy admitted.

"What's the matter?" "Nothing."

"Listen, my girl, you're among friends!" But the words stuck in Judy's throat. She couldn't tell her. Tactfully, Diane changed the subject. She went on some more about her precious Bill, and her wonderful baby.

"I only hope they don't transfer him off to some ungodly place where the climate will be bad for the kid. Think of me, with a baby, shoving off in the good old Chaumont. Or daycoaching it across the continent!"

"They won't, I guess," Judy said. "Flyers' stay put pretty much, except for battle maneuvers."

"Yes," said Diane, a shadow across her face. "And then I can sit home and wonder what's happening out there. . . ."

It was Judy's turn to be tactful. "How about that Guam salad?"

The baby cried. Judy said, "Oh, let me hold him. Oh, goodness, he's so little. Here, take him, I'm afraid he'll break."

Diane lifted him casually, and expertly from her arms. "Just a little damp, that's all. You'll get used to it, when you have one of your own."

Judy said, "You're going to put that funny square on him? I thought they used 'em triangular."

"You're behind the times. Triangles are old-fashioned." But her eyes were on Judy's face. Judy got the oil in the little blue jar. "I'm glad to see you're using my gift," she said.

"Without gifts, my son and he would be naked and cribless," said Diane.

She kissed him on the top of his fuzzy little head and put him back in his bed. "On to the kitchen," she said, picking up an old cap of Bill's which was on a chair and putting it in the closet.

Judy said suddenly, as she sat at the table while Diane reached into the cupboard for a can, "I guess I'll tell you. I've got to tell someone, or burst!"

Diane said, "Shoot."

"Dwight Campbell. . ."

"Yes, I know. He's getting married." Diane looked at her narrowly. "But I thought—I thought you—well—just an old married woman, matching you up with the best bet on the lot. Darling, I thought it was Jack Hanley!"

"Jack?" Judy was startled. "He's just a friend. I—I never—" She got hold of herself. "Well, I was a fool, I thought because Dwight took me dancing a few times—"

"He's the kind who licks boots and campaigns for promotions. He's kind to admirals' wives and the dumpy daughters of Naval Affairs Committeemen. I wouldn't waste a tear on him!"

"I haven't," said Judy, too loudly.

Diane set her lips and said, "Hm. But Judy knew that she knew, and it made her squirm inside to know that even Diane was pitying her. Diane had so much! And she'd have had a house and a husband and yes, a baby, too, if only Ward—"

She put her mind resolutely on the tomatoes she was slicing. She mustn't think about Ward. It wouldn't help.

Studio Club To Get New Hearing

A rehearing in the Studio club case has been set for November 16 in Sacramento according to notices sent out by the State Board of Equalization to Mrs. Alice E. Thompson, the original complainant, and the chief of police of Laguna Beach.

Two liquor licenses held by Mrs. Ramona Harris, operator of the Studio club at 2007 Coast boulevard, Laguna Beach, were rescinded by the board, a hearing being held in Santa Ana September 20.

New evidence in Mrs. Harris' favor will be presented at the new hearing, it was indicated.

Robbery Suspect Ordered to Appear

Alexander Albrecht, 37-year-old Long Beach bartender, charged with robbery of San Clemente Casino a few weeks ago, was under order today to appear November 16 at 10 a. m. for preliminary hearing before Police Judge Fred S. Warner of San Clemente. He appeared for arraignment yesterday.

Albrecht, arrested in Long Beach last Friday, was identified from fingerprints obtained after the Casino robbery. At the time of his arrest, Albrecht assertedly implicated Lambert Carkeek and Fred Rothenbaugh, alias William Johnson, who are under arrest at Sonoma, according to officials.

WAS HE SURPRISED?

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Thomas King, 23, fumbled in his dresser drawer for a cigarette today. He found what he believed to be one, put it in his mouth and lit it. He required hospital treatment after the ensuing explosion. The "cigarette" was a fire cracker.

Plan To Operate On Quintuplets

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Dionne quintuplets, who seldom do anything singly or by halves, all will have their tonsils and adenoids taken out today.

Dr. Allan Roy Dake, the girls' guardian, said they had been suffering from colds at frequent intervals and that he believed their tonsils and adenoids were responsible. All five sets of tonsils became infected simultaneously, he said.

The youngsters were removed to the Dake nurses' hospital last night. A staff of physicians and nurses will come here from the hospital for sick children in Toronto to perform the operations.

Dr. Allan Brown, physician in chief at the Toronto hospital, will supervise the surgery.

Julian Cruz Is Heir To $4,000

A $4,000 estate left by the late Charles Langenberger, of Yuba, consisting of a 21-2 acre property near Placencia, was willed to Julian Cruz, R. D. 3, Anaheim, it was shown when Cruz today filed petition in superior court to probate the will.

The will stated that Langenberger had been a widower for 80 years and that he had not seen his three sisters for more than 40 years.

ACCEPT INVITATIONS

City Councilmen and City Atty. Lew Blodgett will be guests of the Plastering Contractors Association of Orange county next Monday evening at a dinner in Daniger's where a discussion of local plastering problems will be held. The association's invitation was accepted by council Monday night.

Navajo Indians Hold Election

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Navajo Indian "got the jump" on his white brother yesterday in this election business.

Using the white man's ballotbox method for the first time this week, the Navajos elected a tribal council and installed it as the nation's other voters still pondered their votes.

The tribal leadership was chosen by casting colored ballots, each candidate being designated by a color because the Navajo has no alphabet.

Florida Escapes Serious Storm

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 9.—(UP)—The tropical disturbance swirling through the Bahama Islands in the Atlantic gave indications yesterday of decreasing intensity and the federal hurricane warning system announced "no precautions appear necessary on the Southeast Florida coast, except for small craft."

The warning system said the storm was located at 10:30 a. m. a short distance northwest of Andrews Island in the Bahamas. Storm warnings remained displayed on the Florida east coast between Key West and Cape Canaveral.

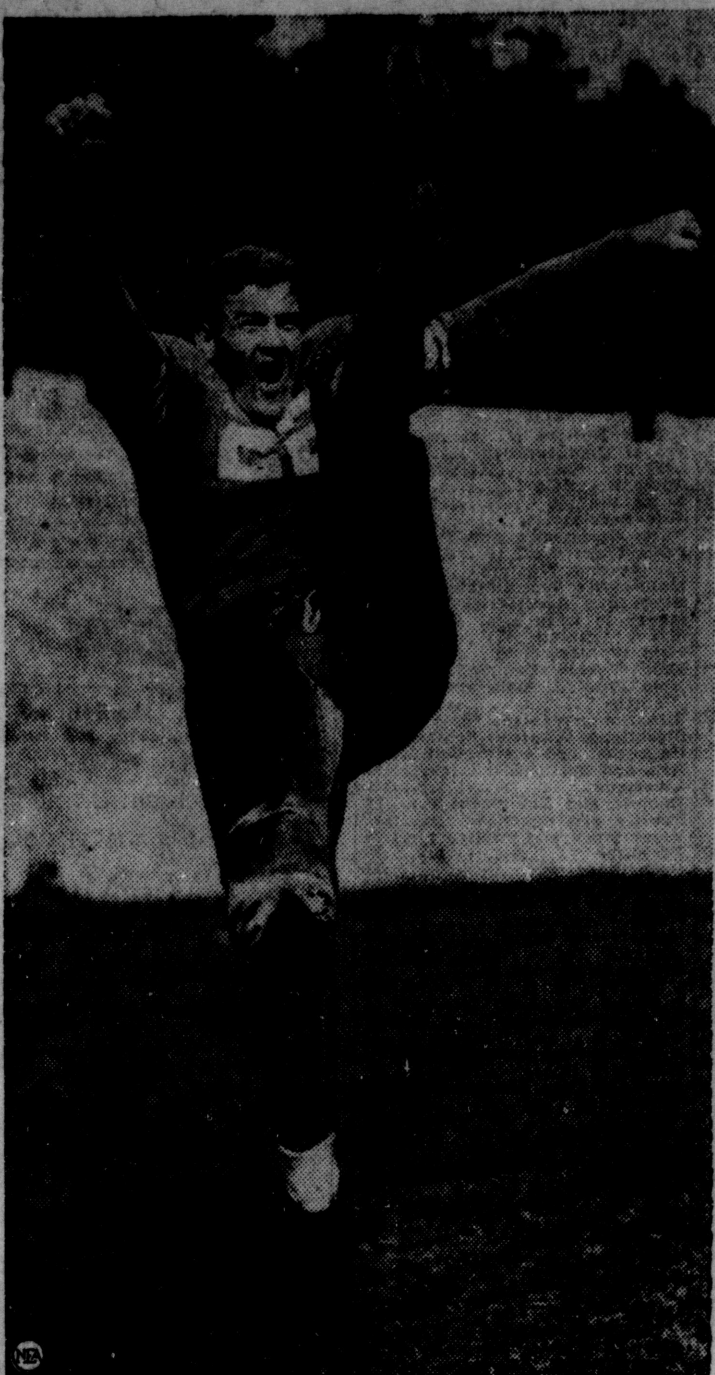

City to Take Part In Big Parade

Santa Ana will be represented officially in Orange's Armistice Day parade celebration, city councilmen decided Monday night after receiving an invitation from the Orange Armistice Day committee, headed by Vernon C. Shippee. The local councilmen will ride in a decorated car.

Duke Points For Pitt Rest Of Season

A beauty has just left the trusty left toe of George McAffee, who, after missing five games because of a foot infection, promises to close the Duke University's football campaign in a blaze of glory.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, N.E.A. Service)

Wallace Wade has a splendid team and nothing much to do between now and Nov. 26 but sharpen it up for Pittsburgh.

The Blue Devils should eat the Orange at Syracuse Saturday, and hurdle North Carolina State the following week end.

Wade professes to believe that his squad hasn't much chance against Pitt, but the feeling in the tobacco triangle is that with its talent and spirit the current Duke varsity will give any of them a bad afternoon.

Unbeaten, untied . . . and unscathed on . . . in a half dozen starts, the Blue and White has come to be known as a defensive team, but Wallace Wade knows he has the ball-handling material with which to build a vicious offense.

The wonder is that the Durham outfit has moved along as well as it has . . . considering George McAffee's foot infection, Eric Tipton's injury, and Blocking Boy Spangler's illness and absences.

A fine example of how the wily Wade scrambled things around to meet emergencies came in the Wake Forest fracas. With Spangler out and another back laid, the Scotsman turned the signal, calling over to Dan Hill, the center, who directed Duke to a touchdown. The versatile and 200-pound Tiger Hill was running the works when the Blue Devils crossed North Carolina's goal line the first time.

LINE SEES CRIPPLED BACKFIELD THROUGH

During the summer, Wade, who is observing his 20th campaign as a gridiron guide, believed that he would have a roaring backfield but was worried about a line hit hard by graduation.

But, as it has turned out, he has been concerned about his backfield all fall while a line of blue steel has held six opponents to a total net yardage by rushing of 247 yards.

The formidable of the Drake forwards was best illustrated in the Colgate contest. They held the Red Raiders to a net zero by rushing. Andy Kerr's athletes rushed the ball 45 yards, but were thrown for losses of a like number of yards.

That's what you call holding that line . . . with plenty to spare.

Wade, a master of the punting game, is well equipped in that department. Duke's punts have averaged 40.3 yards and the hard-rushing forwards have kept opponents to a total of 213 yards in the business of returning them.

Because of its crippled backfield, Duke has no scoring total like those of Pitt, Dartmouth, or California. The Blue Devils scored 18 points against V.P.I. and 27 on Davidson before slipping by Colgate, Georgia Tech and Wake Forest by a touchdown each. North Carolina, their traditional rival, was beaten by two touchdowns.

PITT WILL FIND NO COVERING OPPONENT

But even Wade admits that Duke should be on the upgrade in its last three engagements.

"George McAffee should improve," says the famous coach. "Tipton and Spangler should get back in good shape right away. Our club has as fine a morale as any I've ever drilled. It has fought hard despite the injuries and illness of key men."

George McAffee, triple-threat southpaw junior halfback, ended the spring drill by scoring four touchdowns . . . two on long runs . . . and passing to a fifth in a practice game with Clemson's tough Tigers.

Because infection set in following the removal of a growth from the bottom of his foot, George McAffee did not get back in harness until the second period of the North Carolina battle, when he immediately returned a punt 20 yards and then made a grandstand catch of a 32-yard pass from Tipton that put the ball on the far heel 13 and paved the way for Duke's first touchdown.

Against North Carolina, Tipton, while still slow afoot because of his ailment, punted, passed and played defensive ball with all his former skill and daring.

Bob O'Mara has several times been the lone veteran back in the game. The fullback has gained 453 yards by rushing . . . twice as much as all six enemies picked up against Duke.

O'Mara will have plenty of help from now on.

Potential Pitt will find no covering adversary when the nation's top team deploys in Durham.

IRVINE, AL'S FIGHT FOR 'Y' CAGE LEAD

With undefeated records to protect, classy basketball teams representing Irvine and Al's Lock and Key shop of Santa Ana tangle tonight in one of the feature games of the Y. M. C. A. league's first half schedule.

These are two of the three league leaders, Treesweet Products being the other.

The contest is scheduled at 8:30, immediately after a 7:30 preliminary between the Barr Lumbermen and Patterson's Dairy.

Irvine lines up with Lefty Sears and Herron, forwards; Cook, center, and McChesney and Ables, guards. Al's will use Beatty and L. Lockhart, forwards; Bannister, center; and S. Lockhart and Eastham, guards.

SPURNS PRO OFFER

Russ McConnell, McGill University hockey star who scored 41 points in 10 games last winter, has refused a contract with the New York Rangers, preferring to graduate first.

CHARLIE YATES WORRIES OVER PUTTING TOUCH

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTA, Ga.—There are two accepted methods by which a visitor to Atlanta can find the British Amateur golf champion.

One is to stand at five points, the center of town, until a fellow passes who has a drawl as soft as a cotton boll, a smile as wide as a furrow, and all the naturalness of Jester Lester swinging down Tobacco Road.

That'll be Charlie Yates.

The other method is to wend your way through the marble halls and formidable cages of the First National bank, until you find Banker Yates at his desk, buried as deep in financial reports as he ever was in a St. Andrews bunker.

Champion Really Works

I used the latter method and am pleased to report that at last I have found an amateur champion who works. Charlie isn't just a show piece for the bank. He wasn't hired because he swept through eight matches at Troon last summer and brought back to Atlanta the cup it hadn't seen since Bobby Jones quit going to the golfing wars. He was hired to do a job, and my surprise at finding an amateur champion hard at work behind a desk when the sun was warm, the skies blue, and the fairways calling, must have been evident because Charlie's boss spoke up and, with a smile, said:

"Charlie's a hard working banker now, and golf is just something that comes on weekends." "He sure is right about that," Charlie said. "If there weren't any Saturdays or Sundays in the week, I'd just sell my clubs. I wouldn't have any use for 'em."

Did that mean, inquired of Banker Yates, that he didn't plan to defend the British Amateur at Liverpool next summer?

"No," he answered. "I am going to try and get over there with the cup and see if I can defend it. I reckon the bank can hold together while I am off on a vacation. I'm not exactly on the board of directors you know."

Less Putting Touch

With the originality for which I am noted, I asked Charlie what he thought of his chances to keep the cup.

"Minus zero plus nothing if I don't start putting pretty soon," he said. "That's what won it for me in Scotland. I couldn't miss the cup then, and now I couldn't knock a basketball in a well. Wasn't I awful at Oakmont? I reckon if you play golf long enough putting will gradually run you crazy. One day, one minute, even, you're hot on the greens, and the next nothing will go down."

If he goes abroad next summer an important and treasured part of his luggage will be the long underwear that Bobby Jones saw to it he carried the last time. Charlie believes Bobby's insistence on his wearing the lengthy but warm lingerie was almost as much a factor in his winning as his putting.

"You know," Charlie said, as if suddenly remembering something. "You know, come to think about it, Bobby didn't give me those long drawers, he just lent 'em to me. I guess I oughta take 'em back to him. But I don't think I will. They sure do feel good when that wind and rain you always get over there starts swishing around."

Our conversation ended when I broached the subject of a loan without interest. Golfer Yates immediately became Banker Yates and gave me a look that was six per cent, compounded, and by weekly.

BALTIMORE — Seabiscuit's transformation from a stake horse of moderate caliber . . . and on the downgrade at that . . . into the undisputed champion of the American turf is one of the great sagas of racing.

Other thoroughbreds have gone on to win handsome sums after being sold down the river, but no other swept through to the championship.

They could defeat good horses, but topnotchers beat them. Twenty Grand stopped Sun Beau, for Example.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, who trained Gallant Fox, Omaha, and Granville, could not find the key to Seabiscuit.

It remained for an ex-cowboy named Tom Smith to unlock the secret of Seabiscuit's speed and stamina.

Perhaps Smith went back to the days when he ran horses in quarter mile races in the wild and woolly west for the knowledge, knack, or whatever it was that enabled him to get the blazing early foot out of the son of Hard Tack which conquered everybody . . . including the pampered War Admiral.

Not the least amazing thing about Seabiscuit is that the 5-year-old is still sound.

Seabiscuit was run ragged by Fitzsimmons before the wealthy Wheatley Stable peddled him to Charles S. Howard for $7500 in 1936, when the bay was three and it appeared that his knees were going bad.

The Biscuit ran 35 of his 84 races as a 2-year-old.

BISCUIT NEAR SUN BEAU MONEY RECORD

Seabiscuit has shuttled back and forth across the continent like a commuter . . . in search of competition and a fast track. No American horse traveled farther. The only runner with an equal record for traveling was Gloaming, the famous gelding, which crossed the water between New Zealand and Australia once or twice a year for four or five years.

The blinkered Biscuit scarcely can miss topping Sun Beau's world money-winning mark of $374,000. He is only $29,595 shy, having grossed $346,405, and he is headed for another rich winter campaign in California, where he runs so well.

He would now have a mark that would stand plenty of beating had he not twice been nipped by a nostril in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap . . . first by Rosemont and then by the lightly-weighted Stagehand.

Seabiscuit has won 32 races, placed 12 times, and showed on 13 occasions. He earned only $12,510 as a juvenile, $28,995 at three, $168,500 at four, and $3136,320 last year. Had he met and whipped War Admiral at Belmont Park on Memorial Day, when their match race originally was scheduled, his earnings now would be $55,000 greater.

SON OF HARD TACK WINS AS CHAMP SHOULD

Californians and others who cleaned up on Seabiscuit against War Admiral are unlikely to again get $6.40 for a $2 winning ticket on him before he is retired to Howard's west coast stud.

At prices such as that on the Biscuit, California wouldn't need a pension plan, although Maryland might.

Even the majority of the sharpsharps who scanned the record books and knew of the track record-breaking achievements of Seabiscuit under heavy impost, said that the Cinderella horse couldn't out-gallop War Admiral.

Yet Seabiscuit, the supposedly slow starter, outfooted the fastest-breaking achievements of Ceabiscuit America to the first turn at historic Pimlico, forced him to the outside, ran him into the ground when he got up there to be looked in the eye, and won by three lengths. The Biscuit did it as a champion should . . . in the track record-breaking time of 1:56.3-5 for the mile and three-sixteenths.

Seabiscuit is entitled to the ovation that he will be given upon his return to California, where he has been the darling of race-goers for two years.

'TOUGHER THAN S. BERNARDINO' REPORT SPIES

According to Santa Ana Junior college scouts, a bigger, tougher and harder blocking team than San Bernardino will be what Coach Bill Cook's Dons will be up against here Friday night when they tangle with Coach Burt Heiser's undefeated Chaffey Panthers.

The Don espionage department also reported that along with terrific downfield blocking of the Panther eleven Chaffey has two of the smartest as well as the fastest backs in the league. Lee Terry, fullback, and Kool Shoji, Japanese halfback. Both will bear watching if given a chance to break into the secondary.

Two encouraging reports came out of the Don camp this morning when it was learned that Cy Leivermann, first string tackle,

DArtmouth IS NO. 1 IN EAST

BY HENRY SUPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK.—The big news today on the Eastern football front still is Carnegie Tech, the team that blasted the Pittsburgh myth of invincibility.

Carnegie's 20-10 triumph, first over Pitt since 1923, leveled off the eastern standings and paved the way for a wide-open race for the mythical division title.

With three Saturdays to go the top eastern teams appear to be Carnegie, Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Fordham, although not necessarily in that order.

Dartmouth, because it still is unbeaten, rates the No. 1 position, although chances are any of the other four could whip the Green Indians if they get a chance. Holy Cross defeated only by Carnegie, has shown a wealth of power in its last three starts that entitles it ranking along with Carnegie behind Dartmouth.

Pittsburgh, even though beaten, still is a good football team while Fordham, getting better each week, rates highly.

The next few Saturdays should show which of these teams deserves top-ranking. Dartmouth, real tough for this week when it plays Cornell. Dartmouth has gone unbeaten against Bates, St. Lawrence, Princeton, Brown, Harvard, Yale and Dickinson and none of those opponents rate as tough as Cornell.

Carnegie tackles Duquesne this week and North Carolina State the week after. Holy Cross, which bounced back after a 7-6 defeat by Carnegie, and Colgate, plays Brown Friday and Boston college Nov. 26.

Pitt journeys to Lincoln and plays Nebraska this week after which it has Penn State and Duke. If the Panthers finish that schedule unbeaten, they still will be right up among the leaders.

Fordham, loser only to Pittsburgh, faces North Carolina this week. South Carolina the week after and ends up against N.Y.U.

REDLANDS—Coach Cecil Cushman and a band of 26 University of Redlands football players left by train early this morning for San Jose, where they meet the Spartans of San Jose State tomorrow in their annual Armistice battle. Redlands, having fared only moderately well in their games to date, would like nothing better than to snap the eight-game winning streak held by the powerful Spartans.

BERKELEY—Coach "Stub" Allison worried today about the possibility of his University of California team would still be in a slumping mood.

S. CAL. CONFERENCE FULLERTON JAYSEES ELEVEN IN ACTION PREPS FOR INDIANS

Battling traditional Armistice Day foes, Southern California conference football squads go into action this week against non-conference opponents.

At La Verne, the Cal-Tech Engineers meet the La Verne Leopards, former conference members, in an American Legion sponsored contest. Both teams have yet to score a victory but only a tie game can keep one of the teams from getting into the win column.

Down in San Diego's City Stadium, the Marine Base eleven will battle the State College Aztecs Friday afternoon. The two teams have previously met 10 times, the Staters winning five and the service team four. The 1925 game ending in a 14-14 deadlock. Comparative scores give the Marines the edge, by virtue of their 18-6 victory over Occidental, while the Aztecs downed the Tigers, 8-0. Pomona, the other common opponent, defeated the State College team, 9-0 and the Marines, 19-0.

The University of Redlands Bulldogs take to the road and engage their old rivals, San Jose State, in the northern city Friday afternoon. Last year San Jose triumphed, 12-0.

Unbeaten but twice tied, Whittier seeks to avenge the 19-0 licking administered last year by Garrett Archibide's Plaster Teachers eleven when the two teams tangled on Whittier's Hadley field Friday afternoon. The Poets boast one of their strongest teams in years and still have a mathematical chance to cop the conference gonfalon, provided they whip Redlands and Occidental surprises and knocks over Pomona, the present loop leaders.

Leivermann 'Don Of Last Week'

Cy Leivermann, giant left tackle, was voted as Santa Ana Jaysees' Don-of-the-Week in the balloting at Vandermaast's, clubbed today. Leivermann, played brilliant defensive ball at Riverside last Friday night although suffered a broken hand early in the scrimmage.
